WALL STREET'S little lambs felt the chill of winter yesterday. Benevolent managers of high finance, to save little people from "foolish gambling" when it is too late, raised "call money" to 12 per cent.

If foolish gambling by the public allows banks and the Federal Reserve to go too far in the direction of criminal usury, there may be quite a smash.

Mr. Mellon, who knows about money, ought to look into that, and probably will. Promoted clerks in the Federal Reserve mean well, and are glad to give the banks a chance to make a little dishonest money. But there is such a thing as going too far.

Physicians watching bulletins issued by King George's doctors find it difficult to say exactly what they mean. Royal doctors must be as optimistic as they dare to help Britain's Christmas trade, at the same time protecting their own reputations.

Unfortunately, the most accurate diagnosis probably is that of insurance companies that now refuse to insure the King's life, even at 90 per cent for three weeks.

"Infection in the lungs" is the trouble. The thin wall that separates the King's lungs from doctors watching him is a more effective barrier than the Great Wall of China.

At the Rockefeller Institute in New York, Dr. Carrel opens the lung cavity of a dog, removes a piece of lung tissue, theoretically diseased, and an hour later the dog is as well as ever. Ordinarily, atmospheric pressure would cause collapse of the lung and death on opening the lung cavity. Carrel's assistants pump air into the windpipe at a pressure equal to atmospheric pressure. The dog doesn't suffer by the way, feels nothing.

But you can't experiment on a king.

Scientists study fishes that live [illegible] beneath the ocean surface. Bring them to the top, removing the water pressure, they burst and die.

[illegible] live at the bottom of the atmospheric ocean, 500 miles deep. If you took us to the surface we probably should burst, and we should die surely. Men cannot live even 10 miles up, to say nothing of 500 miles.

We pity the poor, submerged deep-sea fishes, leading stupid dull lives. They would pity the submerged poor among human beings.

Science says all of earth's life was once in the ocean. Some animals climbed on the land, developed lungs in place of the fish's bladder, ears in place of gills. Men were included in that migration to land. Other animals, even more ambitious, learned to fly—the birds.

Among human beings, a few, birdlike, fly above the level of necessity to the realms of wealth. Once they get there, they, like the birds, are safe. But, like the birds, they don't do much thinking. They don't have to think.

Germany likes new ideas. German girls go into athletics in scanty clothing. Societies and health farms exist here and there, in Germany and other parts of Europe, where clothing is barred entirely.

But there is a limit, and it was reached at Frankfort, when actors showed the Ruler of the Universe dressed in "plus fours" or knickerbockers. The play was endured in Hamburg and other cities, but Frankfort's audience threw stench bombs in the theater disturbing the actors.

Hamlet in "plus fours" and a fuxedo was bad enough. But man, made in the image of his Maker, should not seek to degrade his Maker to his own level, even on the stage.

A device demonstrated by a New Jersey inventor sets type on a type-setting machine by wire. No hand touches the machine.

This will worry type setters, but probably it need not.

When the type setting machine came in printers thought they were finished. They make more now than they ever made setting type by hand.

Mr. Broun, known the world over as the recalcitrant stormy petrel of thought, quarrels with President Coolidge because the President speaks of good will between nations, then asks for fifteen cruisers.

That's not inconsistent. The other nations know that we can get the fifteen cruisers, and fifty if we want them. And that creates the "good will."

Broun asks, "Is a man who goes out into this world armed only by faith more timid than he who carries weapons?" Of course he is. Look at the rabbit. He carries no weapons, and is more timid than the lion or wolf, that has a mountful of weapons.

DAUGHTER OF POET IS DEAD

Miss Alice Mary Longfellow, daughter of the poet and the "grave Alice" of his famous poem, "The Children's Hour," died early today at her home, 105 Brattle st., Cambridge.

She was 78 years old but had been active up to two months ago. According to a statement by her surviving sister, Mrs. J. G. Thorp of 118 Brattle st., Miss Alice died of arterial trouble.

Miss Alice was the eldest of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's three daughters, his inspiration for the poem "The Children's Hour," ons stanza of which reads:

From my study I see in the lamp light,
Descending the broad hall stair,
Grave Alice, and laughing Allegra,
And Edith with golden hair.

Edith, the second daughter, was [illegible] Sumner Appleton.

KING GAINS IN HEALTH

London, Dec. 7—King George's powers of resistance today were serving him well in his battle with the severe and persistent illness which attacked him more than a fortnight ago.

His illness, however, still was causing anxiety to his subjects and to countless well wishers throughout the world.

Several recent medical bulletins, and particularly the one issued shortly before noon today, indicated how well his powers of resistance

DEATH TAKES PEARSON, NEW HAVEN ROAD HEAD

Edward J. Pearson, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad since 1917, died today in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, from a heart attack.

Ill health was given as his reason for resigning—and it was a heart attack that ended his life after he had been under observation for heart weakness over a period of weeks.

His death came as a shock to Vice-President Edward G. Buckland, his probable successor, as the vice-president visited his chief at the hospital only yesterday, at which time he had appeared to be improved.

It came also as a shock to Mrs. Pearson, who, like Vice-President Buckland, was in New Haven. Mrs. Pearson was at the family apartment in the Taft Hotel.

A special train was hurriedly made up for Mrs. Pearson when the news arrived and the train was given right of way over the New Haven lines to New York, en route to Baltimore.

According to a statement by Dr. Llewellyn F. Barker, attending physician at Johns Hopkins, death from

BOY SAVES 10 IN FIRE

With a 17-year-old boy running the elevator as a volunteer, ten persons were carried down through thick, choking smoke to the street today during a two-alarm $15,000 fire in the apartment house, at 1056 Commonwealth ave., Allston.

The boy, Francis Grady of Mt. Pleasant st., Somerville, was gaining the building when a frantic woman tenant rushed out, told him the building was afire and asked if he could run the elevator and rescue the persons upstairs.

Grady dashed into the building and made several trips in the small elevator, carrying all in the apartments down safely.

The fire, starting in wiring in a wall on the fifth floor, is believed to have been smoldering several hours before breaking through.

When the wall did give, clouds of smoke poured into the corridors and apartments of the five story building.

And the air reaching the smoldering wires gave fresh life to the flames as they worked rapidly along the insulation through the walls.

The fire broke out eventually in the apartments of Mrs. Anna Pugh, Frank Noonan, William Dermon and Isabel Munroe, causing heavy damage. In addition, there was considerable water damage in apartments of the third and fourth floors.

PAWN IN BITTER BATTLE

LOVE AND RANCOR MINGLE IN HIS LIFE

Bruce Dunbar, the pawn in the bitter battle his society parents are waging. He has been taught, his mother said, not what most boys are taught about the sacredhood of womanhood, but that "women were no good."

WIFE RAPS DUNBAR IN TRIAL

Mrs. Bonney L. [illegible] Newton society woman, a [illegible] in Middlesex Probate [illegible] day after testifying [illegible] eight-year-old son, [illegible] whose custody she [illegible] her husband, Phillip [illegible] had accused her of [illegible] the Ten Commandments [illegible] mess of Junk," and [illegible] of."

Mrs. Dunbar was closely qu[illegible] tioned regarding a diary which [illegible] started keeping last October [illegible] after considerable wrangling [illegible] brought out that she did start [illegible] suggestion of her attorney [illegible] P. Williams, Jr.

Judge Chase also asked [illegible] ries of questions concerning a Mrs. [illegible] Abbott and a Mrs. Bancroft, [illegible] separated from their husbands, [illegible] cording to testimony, [illegible] with Mrs. Dunbar at times, and [illegible] garding when Bruce expressed [illegible] approval.

At the request of Dunbar [illegible] put the witness read letters [illegible] affectionate nature written [illegible] husband to Bruce while the boy was with her in the country.

Seated on a bench in the corridor, with only a woman friend beside her, Mrs. Dunbar, who has presented a firm front since she took the stand yesterday, gave rein to her feelings and cried for more than five minutes.

She had previously told how her small son had set fires in his house and had refused to express sorrow or recognize her right to dictate to him.

Mrs. Dunbar took the stand at the opening of court and answered

Gives All to Xmas Fund

Edith Marcus of Dorchester is only a little girl but she has the true spirit of the Goodfellows.

She has written a letter to the Goodfellow Editor and has enclosed 10 cents as her contribution to the unfortunate at Christmas time.

What that dime means to Edith, only a youngster in her position can know. Her family is poor, she says. Her daddy has six children to clothe and feed, none above 11 years old, and just the matter of shoes is a problem.

Yes Edith sends the only 10 cents she owns—money earned by errands—and in the same ratio of possessions a multi-millionaire must give his multi-millions and be none the poorer for his gift.

Edith has the Goodfellow spirit. Have YOU?

If you could read some of the pathetic letters coming in to the Goodfellow Editor, there would be no need to ask any questions of

JOHNSON SAYS BOULDER DAM IS NOT COSTLIEST

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Senator Johnson of California opened debate on the Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon Dam bill in the Senate today by reading a statement of the reclamation bureau, which, he said, showed practically all of the large dams in the country had cost more than was originally estimated.

Some opposition to the Boulder Dam bill lately has been based on [illegible] the board of engineers' report that the entire project would cost around $165,000,000, whereas the bill calls for $125,000,000.

Following the Californian's statement, Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, discussed this report, which he said disproved the contention of Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, that the Boulder project is not feasible.

STOCKS SLUMP AGAIN AFTER BRISK RALLY

Stocks rallied sharply in all sections of the New York market today, after an overnight accumulation of selling orders had carried prices of the speculative leaders from $1 to $15 a share below Thursday's closing levels.

It was the old story of an abrupt swing in the price pendulum carrying stocks to attractive buying levels, where they were eagerly bought by the bargain hunters and the professionals.

Another selling wave put in its appearance in the last half hour, [illegible] numerous issues to their lows for the day.

No matter how stiff the money market, high call loan rates in Wall Street always bring in millions of dollars from the outside to be loaned in the stock market, and today was no exception to the rule. The banks had a good many things to take care of, but the big corporations and outside banks are always ready to loan at high rates.

The brokers in Wall Street sold that overnight selling [illegible] accumulated in large volume that accounted for the weak prices at the start and the 1,000,000 share turnover of stocks in the first half hour.

SOCIETY WOMAN BLAMES HER HUSBAND FOR OUTRAGES

questions by her counsel in a firm and collected tone.

The long recital of Bruce's rudeness, his scorn of his mother and his father's alleged support of him in his attitude would on the woman's self-control so that, when she left the stand she was near collapse.

Mrs. Dunbar wore a blue dress and black, tight fitting hat with silver and gold ornaments across the front. She had tan shoes and light colored stockings, and a necklace of gold beads. She was very alert apparently physically and mentally, as she responded in a strong, clear voice to the questions of her attorney, Harold P. Williams, Jr.

Q.—Do you recall a conversation you had with Bruce regarding the Ten Commandments and religious matters? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was the conversation? A.—Bruce said: "What do you call the Ten Commandments?" and I replied "I've heard them called the law of Moses." He said: "No, you call them a mess of junk."

Q.—What else was said? A.—Bruce said: "What do you think of God?" and I replied: "That's a pretty large subject. It is difficult to answer that question in a few words. I'll tell you later." He replied: "You think he's a pest." I said: "Who told you that? Who thinks I think that way?" He replied: "It doesn't matter, I won't tell you." I then asked if his father had told him that and he said: "I won't tell you, I won't tell you."

Says Dunbar Wouldn't Punish His Son for Rudeness to Her

Q.—Do you recall the incident which Mrs. Ott testified to about the violence on the part of Bruce? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was that? A.—Just as she related it yesterday. Do you wish me to repeat it?

SHE TOLD HUSBAND.

Q.—No. What did you do after that? A.—I reprimanded him and put him to bed, where he remained the rest of the day, but was to have his dinner at the appointed hour.

Q.—When did Mr. Dunbar come back? A.—At quarter to six.

Q.—What did he do? A.—He went up to Bruce's room, sat down on his bed, played games and told him stories.

Q.—What was his attitude about what had happened? A.—He said nothing about it.

Q.—Since June, 1926, who had bought and looked after Bruce's clothes? A.—I have, most of them; nearly all I should say.

Q.—Do you recall any occasion in which you observed the way in which his wife clad when he came from his father to you? A.—Yes, a month ago. He was out playing with the boys. When I got home I discovered he had no underwear on. It was fairly cold. Also his trousers were torn, so I redressed him.

THIS IS HIS HOME"

Q.—Have you talked with his father about that? A.—Yes. On a day following the incident of the clothing, it was Sunday morning and his father telephoned and said "Where is Bruce?" I said: "Why he is here" Mr. Dunbar said: "I wish him over here at once." I told him I would have him there at 9 o'clock. Sunday school didn't begin until 9:30.

Mr. Dunbar said: "I wish him here before nine. I must give him an entire change of clothing before he goes to Sunday school." I said I had him all ready and he was dressed in his good clothes. With this Mr. Dunbar said: "What do you mean by having any of his clothes at your house? This is now his home." I said I was rather fortunate in having some of his clothes at my house because he had no underwear on.

She Found Him Without Any Underwear, Says Mother

Q.—You have kept a diary of recent events? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is that it? (witness was handed a black leather loose-leafed notebook) A.—Yes. (Witness looked through book).

Q.—Did you have a conversation with Mr. Dunbar over the telephone about November 5 regarding the child being clothed properly? A.—I had a conversation at Mr. Dunbar's house with reference to that.

BOUGHT HIM A BIKE

Court—Do I understand, Mrs. Dunbar, that that conversation was not over the telephone? A.—It started over the telephone and was continued when I took Bruce to the house.

Q.—Well what was the telephone conversation on Nov. 5? A.—I called Mr. Dunbar's house and talked with Mr. Dunbar but asked for Bruce. He said he was out, he didn't know where. I asked him to remind the child to dress warmly as it was a cool day. He said: "The child is a free agent. If I give him a sweater and he goes out without it I can't do anything about it?"

Q.—Did you buy a bicycle for the boy? A.—I did.

Q.—Do you recall an occasion when he came and took the bicycle? A.—Yes, very clearly. The latter part of October.

Q.—What was that incident? A.—I had left the house and thought it was securely locked. The bicycle was in the kitchen. When I returned home the bicycle was missing. I asked the neighbors if Bruce had taken it. I learned he had. As a result I telephoned Mr. Dunbar's house. I first got the housekeeper, Mrs. Herring, and asked if Bruce was there safely with the bicycle, and learned that he was. Then Mr. Dunbar came on the phone and angrily said "I do not wish you to have any communication with Mrs. Herring about anything. I am the person in this house to be talked to and asked for. I do not trust your methods. You must call for me if you wish to talk about anything."

MADE BRUCE MOODY

Q.—Do you recall a conversation about better co-operation? A.—Distinctly. On October 28, Mr. Dunbar called Bruce. It was one of the times I thought the child had had an enjoyable day. He had been horseback riding. After Bruce had talked to his father I noticed the child took on a moody tone and said: "Yes, I ought to be over there with you. Yes, I think you're right, daddy; I ought to be there."

I said: "Bruce, why don't you feel your ought to be here? I try to do everything I can for you to make you happy. If there is anything I can do to make you feel you ought to be here just as much as there, I'll be glad to do it." He said he ought to be over there. He said: "Daddy feels and I feel that I ought to be over there. I think I ought to go now." I called up Mr. Dunbar and told him I didn't think it was right for him to say that to Bruce on a day in which he should be with me.

Mr. Dunbar said: "You actually talk as though you expected the slightest consideration from me, and as though I owed you anything. Again I thought it futile to say more, and said good-by.

Q.—Do you recall an incident on October 31, when you found Bruce playing in the street? A.—Yes. I saw him playing in the street as I was driving to the village and asked him if he wished to come along. As we were driving down West Newton hill Bruce said: "Mother, I must lie in the bottom of the car until we get to the village."

Child Said Mrs. Dunbar Thought God 'Junk'

"DO YOU recall a conversation you had with Bruce regarding the Ten Commandments and religious matters," Mrs. Dunbar was asked while testifying in her battle for the custody of the boy.

On replying "Yes," she was asked to give the conversation, and testified:

"Bruce said: 'What do you call the Ten Commandments?' and I replied: 'I've heard them called the law of Moses.' He said: 'No, you call them a mess of junk.' Bruce said: 'What do you think of God?' and I replied: 'That's a pretty large subject. It is difficult to answer that question in a few words. I'll tell you later.' He replied: 'You think He's a pest.' I said: 'Who told you that? Who thinks I think that way? Was it your father?' He said: 'I won't tell you; I won't tell you.'"

Refused to Kiss His Mother After Saying His Prayers

I expatiated on the great danger of a fire to him and talked very severely. I did not punish him, as he did not seem to realize the danger of the house burning.

Q.—Was there another episode of that sort? A.—Yes; I found another fire since then, in a cold closet in the cellar. I found the embers. Bruce had evidently set it the day before. I went to school and then took him to his father's house and asked him if he had set another fire. He replied: "Tommy and I were playing in the cellar. Tommy set it." I said, "Are you absolutely sure, Bruce?" He said, "Yes." And I said, "Then I will call up Tommy's house and talk to his mother about it," and Bruce said, "I wouldn't do that, mother. I lit the match, but Tommy wanted me to do it." I then talked very severely again to him about setting fires and he said: "I shall do as I please. I shall set fires if I want to. You haven't any rights to talk to me about it in this house."

SHE SPANKED HIM

"I said, 'Very well, then let us go out on the lawn or in the street or in my automobile and we will talk about it there.' He replied, 'I won't, and in my daddy's house you haven't anything to say.' Then he said, 'Oh, shut up!' I said, 'No, I won't shut up. I'm going to talk to you about that.' He again said, 'You shut up! I'll do as I please.' I said that I would have to punish you unless you say you are sorry,' and he said, 'You can't punish me in this house.'

"I said, 'Yes, I can punish you in this house' and I spanked him twice on his corduroy breeches with my hand. He had an emotional upset after that. I said, 'All you would have had to do was to have said you were sorry. He said, 'Well, I won't say I'm sorry. I said, 'You'll have to take the brush and run and sweep up the embers and you will have to apologize to the maid. He had been impudent to her.

He said: "I won't do anything of the kind." I said: "After school you must come to my house and sweep up the embers of the fire and you must apologize to the maid." He said: "I won't sweep up, the embers. I won't apologize and you can't talk to me that way in this house." I took him to my house and quieted him down. He did sweep up the embers and he did apologize to the maid, and when he returned to school he was feeling fine.

ANOTHER PUNISHMENT

Q.—Do you recall any other times when corporal punishment was inflicted? A.—Yes, on the occasion when Miss MacDonald said he would not eat. He had been excessively rude to me for 20 minutes before dinner. At dinner I cut his meat. He said: "I will not eat because you cut it my meat with your knife." I explained I had not used the knife.

"You've got to make Anna get another plate of food," he said, I said to him: "I'll give you just eight seconds to begin eating that food."

Then I began to count off the eight seconds. When I had counted the eight seconds he said: "There you see I won't do it and you can't make me by threatening me." I said: "I'm not threatening you." I then took him upstairs and spanked him four times.

He has been very unruly since my husband and I separated. Once I bent over to kiss him and he said: "I don't want to kiss you and I won't." He was in bed at the time and had just concluded saying his prayers. There had been considerable ... ing this incident. I intended to use his line as I thought a little tap there would be the proper thing as the words came from his mouth. On previous occasions I had put soapsuds in his mouth.

I intended to use his line but he turned and my finger fell on his nose and his nose started to bleed.

Q.—Did you ever use a strap on him? A.—Yes, I have. It is a soft belt.

Q.—When did you go to the Cape to see him? A.—I think it was the 21st or 22nd of September.

Q.—What happened? A.—I found them on the beach and I asked him if he would like to go to Hyannis by automobile and I would let him put his hand on the wheel. He said: "I'd like to very much but you'll have to ask Daddy." I asked his father if he could go and I took Bruce in the automobile for half an hour.

HE SHOWED AFFECTION

Q.—What was his attitude during the ride? A.—Very nice. He was very glad to see me. He protested on about what they had been doing. He put his arm around me and gave every evidence of being glad to be with me.

When we returned I had a supper to him and at supper we motored back to Duxbury.

Court: If you had been invited to supper would you have stayed? A.—Yes, I would have stayed, Bruce had developed several expressions since the separation such as "I'll do as I please," and "You can't do a thing with me" by threats."

Q.—What other change in his attitudes have you noticed? A.—I had an experience had November with him. I had put him to bed and he was in the most pleasant humor. I had read to him. Then I said: "Good night, dear," and bent over to kiss him.

He said: "You mustn't use the word 'Dear' in talking to me." I said: "What's the matter, do you think it's too effeminate?"

He said: "No, but you can't call me dear because you don't love me.'

I said: "You can't possibly mean that, Bruce. Think of all the things that I've done for you, and how much I like to have you with me." He replied: "Yes, I do. You don't think anything about me." I replied: "Why, I do, Bruce." He said: "Well, you don't because you broke up the home and you can't kiss me good night and you can't call me dear."

Q.—Do you think of any other incidents? A.—Yes. I have always thought him to help around the house, and I'm glad to give him an allowance for doing so. Last March I planned to take him to Wenham to visit a friend of mine who has three boys. I planned to have him go with his children. In order that we might get away early I said to him: "Please help mother by drying the dishes and sweeping."

He said: "No, I won't. You go along perfectly well when I'm not here, and I'm not going to dry your dishes or sweep your floor."

He will not help me any more. He did sweep the floor that day.

Dunbar Made Me Cry, Wife Says, and It Angered Her Son

We finally went to Boston and I took him to a picture theater. A picture came of which I did not approve and I asked him to leave with me. He said: "I won't leave the theater. You paid money for the seats and you can take my things and go out without me if you want to." These people sitting back of us seemed to sense that there was something wrong and I stepped into the aisle and said to Bruce: "You must come." He did, and then when we got to the street he told me just what he thought of me.

Q.—What was the attitude toward you prior to the separation? A.—He was very affectionate.

Q.—Any other incidents? A.—Yes, a very significant incident occurred a week or 10 days ago. I went to Mr. Dunbar's home in West Newton about 20 minutes earlier than he was supposed to come to my house. Mr. Dunbar and Mrs. Herring were there. I asked Mr. Dunbar if I might have Bruce at that time although I was 20 minutes earlier and I explained the circumstances that I was taking an old lady home. I asked Bruce if he would come with me.

Mr. Dunbar said: "You have no right to Bruce until 5:30. We have planned to use the 20 minutes between now and then amusing ourselves.

"I said to Mr. Dunbar: 'I did not

Father Prejudices Son Against Her, She Declares on Cross-Examination

Q.—What did you do that for? Were you afraid you might forget some of the bad things? A.—Why, I thought things of this nature might be imminent and I wanted to correct them.

Q.—You knew it was imminent, didn't you? A.—No, Judge Chase.

"FRIEND" ADVISED HER

Q.—Didn't you keep the diary you had made up your mind you were not going to keep the last arrangement ordered by Judge Chase? A.—I had not made up my mind.

Q.—Were you considering going to trial? A.—Possibly.

Q.—Why did you keep a diary? A.—Well, I was advised by a friend who has had court experience.

Q.—What was the friend's name? A.—I can't remember. I don't see why this question should be answered. I can't answer that. (Discussion followed, and it was finally decided her counsel, Mr. Williams, told her to keep a diary.)

Q.—You've kept it pretty carefully, haven't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You are interested in the africale, aren't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You've acted a good deal? A.—Yes.

Q.—That interest is quite pronounced with you, isn't it? A.—I am very much interested in dramatic work.

Q.—Taken very many different parts, haven't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have no servants now? A.—No.

Q.—It is not because you lack any means, Mrs. Dunbar? A.—No.

Q.—You are a woman of ample means in your own right, aren't you? A.—I have money enough to live a servant if that's what you mean.

Q.—When you did not hire another servant you had other plans then? A.—Yes.

Q.—What plans? A.—If the recommendation of Judge McCoole is filed and I was to have custody of Bruce part of the Saturday and Sundays I would have gone to Boston and rented my house to friends.

KNEW OF MAID'S VISIT

Q.—You are not accustomed to living that way without a servant? A.—Why I did my own work for the first three years of my married life.

Q.—When did you hear about the talk that Anna MacDonald had with Judge McCoole? A.—The next morning.

Q.—Did you know that she was going to talk to him? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you ask her what she said? A.—I did not ask her specifically. I asked her in a general way, saying if she would like to tell me I would listen.

Q.—Did she tell you? A.—She said he asked her if I was good to Bruce.

Q.—Now I ask you, Mrs. Dunbar, and you can answer it any way you like, why didn't you summon Anna MacDonald? A.—Atty. Williams: That's for me to say.

Q.—Well, I'm asking Mrs. Dunbar. A.—I didn't want to interfere with her employment.

Q.—If you thought she could help you why didn't you ask her to come? A.—I just stated why.

"HE PREJUDICES BOY"

Q.—I'm trying to frame a question which will enable me to ascertain your point of view with reference to the boy, and with that in mind I ask you if I am correct in understanding that you said, that you give as your principal reasons for asking the court to give you the child, and one of your principal complaints against your husband is that he has tried to prejudice the boy against you? A.—Yes.

Q.—One of the reasons why you are asking the court to give you the boy is not because the father is rude to you? A.—The effect of his rudeness in the child's presence is bad.

Q.—You don't ask the court to give you the boy because the father had slapplomed him while he was at your house? A.—No.

Q.—Although that's one of your complaints? A.—The nature of the telephone conversation.

Q.—Oh, you do complain of the telephone conversation? A.—Yes, I do.

Q.—Because of the effect on the boy's mind towards you? A.—Not the only reason.

Q.—You don't ask the court to give you custody of the boy because of the boy's unmanageable and rude with you? A.—Yes.

CITES HIS RUDENESS

Q.—You don't ask for the custody of the boy because he set fire to your house, do you? A.—Certainly not.

Q.—When you told the court about Bruce's rudeness after returning from his father you don't say you are entitled to custody because he's unhappy while he's with you? A.—Why, no.

Q.—You want the court to understand that when he comes from his father's, because of some influence he is rude to you? A.—To me and to others.

Q.—To others? A.—Yes.

Q.—To whom? A.—To other children. I've heard him say that all the children in Waban were no good.

Q.—By the way, she is a Mrs. Abbott, isn't she? A.—Yes.

Q.—Does she live with her husband? A.—No.

Q.—She has lived with you, hasn't she? A.—Two months.

Q.—Bruce doesn't like her, does he? A.—Why, yes, I guess so.

Q.—Why, I thought you told the court that Bruce said to you on Monday, referring to Mrs Abbott: "How long is that woman going to stay?" A.—On Monday? he felt like that.

Q.—Does he like her? A.—In spells.

Q.—When he doesn't like her is it Mrs. Dunbar's fault? A.—It is because of Mr. Dunbar's attitude toward her.

Dunbar Isn't Always Gentlemanly, Wife Declares in Bitter Tone

Q.—Mr. Dunbar doesn't like her, does he? A.—No, he doesn't.

Q.—How about Mrs. Bancroft? Is she married? A.—Yes.

Q.—Does she live with you? A.—At times.

Q.—Does Bruce like her? A.—About the same.

Q.—His attitude toward Mrs. Bancroft is the same as toward Mrs. Abbott? A.—Just about.

Q.—Do you blame the influence of Mr. Dunbar? A.—No.

Q.—Mr. Dunbar likes Mrs. Bancroft? A.—No, he does not.

Q.—Was the boy well fed? A.—Yes.

Q.—His father has good manners toward everybody but you? A.—No, I wouldn't say so.

Q.—Well, what I mean to say is, isn't he a gentleman to everybody but you? A.—No, I can't say so. Judge Chase.

Q.—The boy smoke rudely about his father to you? A.—Yes.

Q.—He called his father a "sap," didn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—You don't blame yourself for the child saying that? A.—No, I Daddy."

Q.—But you do blame the father for the child saying rude things about you? A.—Yes.

Q.—I'm going to show you a package and ask you to believe me when I say I've never looked at it. A.—Of course I do.

Q.—I ask you to look at them and tell me what they are? A.—They are Mr. Dunbar's letters to Bruce while Bruce was with me on a vacation last summer.

Q.—Now, Mrs. Dunbar, take any letter at random, any one you have first falls on, and read it to the court. A.—The witness read excerpts from letters.

The first was dated August 5, 1928. "Dear Little Fellow: Today Harry and I went sailing up. It is very hot. The sweat rolled down my dome (slang for comprehend) on to my eyebrows, down my chin and down my chest, front and behind. The tears should be delivered today. We will be home Tuesday night if all goes well. Today we had watermelon for dessert and a big dish of ice cream. Oh, boy. I miss you a lot and think of you every day. Much love from

We finally went to Boston and I took him to a picture theater. A picture came of which I did not approve and I asked him to leave with me. He said: "I won't leave the theater. You paid money for the seats and you can take my things and go out without me if you want to." These people sitting back of us seemed to sense that there was something wrong and I stepped into the aisle and said to Bruce: "You must come." He did, and then when we got to the street he told me just what he thought of me.

Q.—What was the attitude toward you prior to the separation? A.—He was very affectionate.

Q.—Any other incidents? A.—Yes, a very significant incident occurred a week or 10 days ago. I went to Mr. Dunbar's home in West Newton about 20 minutes earlier than he was supposed to come to my house. Mr. Dunbar and Mrs. Herring were there. I asked Mr. Dunbar if I might have Bruce at that time although I was 20 minutes earlier and I explained the circumstances that I was taking an old lady home. I asked Bruce if he would come with me.

Mr. Dunbar said: "You have no right to Bruce until 5:30. We have planned to use the 20 minutes between now and then amusing ourselves.

"I said to Mr. Dunbar: 'I did not

Q.—What did you do that for? Were you afraid you might forget some of the bad things? A.—Why, I thought things of this nature might be imminent and I wanted to correct them.

Q.—You knew it was imminent, didn't you? A.—No, Judge Chase.

"FRIEND" ADVISED HER

Q.—Didn't you keep the diary you had made up your mind you were not going to keep the last arrangement ordered by Judge Chase? A.—I had not made up my mind.

Q.—Were you considering going to trial? A.—Possibly.

Q.—Why did you keep a diary? A.—Well, I was advised by a friend who has had court experience.

Child Said Mrs. Dunbar Thought God 'Junk'

"DO YOU recall a conversation you had with Bruce regarding the Ten Commandments and religious matters," Mrs. Dunbar was asked while testifying in her battle for the custody of the boy.

On replying "Yes," she was asked to give the conversation, and testified:

"Bruce said: 'What do you call the Ten Commandments?' and I replied: 'I've heard them called the law of Moses.' He said: 'No, you call them a mess of junk.' Bruce said: 'What do you think of God?' and I replied: 'That's a pretty large subject. It is difficult to answer that question in a few words. I'll tell you later.' He replied: 'You think He's a pest.' I said: 'Who told you that? Who thinks I think that way? Was it your father?' He said: 'I won't tell you; I won't tell you.'"

All Her Son's Bad Deeds Listed by Mrs. Dunbar

ADMISSION that she kept a diary of all the misdeeds of her eight-yearold son, Bruce, for whose custody she is fighting, was made today by Mrs. Bonney Lilley Dunbar on the witness stand in Middlesex Probate Court.

She made her admissions in cross-examination by former Judge Frederic H. Chase.

She said she kept the diary because she thought there might be a trial. She refused to tell who advised her to do so.

12 CANTORS FACING COURT IN MARRIAGE TEST CASES

GIRL IN HIDING FOUND

Charlotte M. Maguire, 17, of Malden, who vanished Sunday, was located by Motorcycle Officer Sweeney. She said she intended to go to Hollywood or Florida with another girl, who backed out.

LOVE NOTES TO 'SWEET EYES' ARE READ

The ups and downs of a tempestuous but ill-fated affair of the heart between John Moraitis, 21-year-old restaurant proprietor, and his "Sweet Eyes," 19-year-old Mary Aftos of Linden st., Somerville, were revealed today by the reading of John's love letters in Middlesex superior Court, East Cambridge.

Mary, through her father, Peter Aftos, is suing John for $25,000 breach of promise. She claims the young restaurant man, after winning her affection by saying he would marry her, discarded her for a girl from Norwich, Ct.

"You are my light, my consolation, my life," wrote John, in one of the many letters which Mary offered to the court in evidence of her former fiance's warm sentiments of days gone by.

"Sweet Mary," read another, in part, "when you kiss me I feel that I am 10 years old."

When prose proved inadequate to the full expression of John's soul, he lapsed into free verse, as follows:

"As long as the mountains stand,
You are going to be my love.
I wonder if you are going to forget:
I don't know."

There was more formality to John's earlier letters. One read:

"I read your note and I was very glad to learn of your increasing affection for me. Our love is going to last until we get under the golden wreaths. Ask for any money you want and you shall have as much as you want. I kiss you. Your lover,
"JOHN."

Mary's face was as good as a doctor when John was ill.

He wrote:

"My Sweet Mary—I am going to get sick. Give me your picture. I am obliged for the sweet kisses you gave me.
"JOHN."

"Don't think that I am fooling, sweet eyes," one letter read. "Don't think I am a man without principles. I embrace you to warm you up so you will get well, because I do not want you to get sick on account of me."

There was no sacrifice John wouldn't make if it would please his "sweet Mary," the letters attested.

"I give you my photo to tear up, to show my love for you," said he in one letter.

Another read:

"You want to make it possible that we kiss each other because I can't stand it any longer, but I know how it looks to me. One whole week and I cannot eat or work when we don't meet."

And another:

"I am doing a lot of work to make you understand, dear, that you understand we are going to be married some day."

WIFE SAW HIM "WED" NO. 2

Herbert J. Leigh-Manuell, church organist of Sayville, L. I., who "married" a 16-year-old girl pupil as his wife looked on and then was arrested as a bigamist, and now hopes to begin life anew with No. 1 after the legal difficulties are settled.

ACTION TAKEN TO CLEAR UP TANGLES

Summonses for the arrest of 12 cantors and others connected with synagogues in Boston, on the allegation that they have solemnized scores of marriages without being properly licensed, were issued today in municipal court.

The case is a test to determine whether these individuals and others in similar positions properly call themselves rabbis or "assistant rabbis" with the power to marry, according to Joseph Canaan, assistant registrar in the Boston marriage license bureau, who applied for the summonses.

Several of the leading rabbis in the United States will be called as witnesses to help thresh out the knotted question before the courts.

Couples married by the defendants are in no danger of having their marriages invalidated, even if the accused are found to have performed the ceremonies illegally, provided the married parties acted in innocence and good faith.

The Boston Association of Jewish Congregations, which is understood to contend that the men in question have no authority to solemnize marriages, has held several conferences with State and city officials regarding the matter.

Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook sent out a letter of information to everybody concerned, giving the interpretation of the law as made by State officials, but it was finally decided to have a test case in court, and Assistant Registrar Cahalan was designated to act.

The case is believed to hinge on the correct definition of the word rabbi, which, according to officials, by law applies only to one who is a graduate of a rabbinical college or a member of a national rabbinical body, or one who has been privately and properly ordained according to Hebrew law.

One cantor performed 11 marriages in two weeks, another six in the same period, and a third, termed a "specialized rabbi" by officials, performed six in three weeks, even after Secretary Cook's warning, it is said.

Tells How Mechanizing Age Has Trebled Wages

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The American Mining Congress was told today by Col. M. C. Rorty, vice-president of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corporation, that increased mechanization of industry would shift workers from traditional occupations to the production of new goods of the luxury class instead of decreasing employment.

Terming mechanization as "that element of civilization which stands fast when all other elements are disrupted and dispersed," he said it has been "directly responsible for that increase in real wages which, in spite of occasional halts and irregularities, has doubled and trebled the income of the ordinary worker during a comparatively short span of years."

Santa's Assistants Cherish Their Jobs

When old Santa Claus has filled the last little Christmas stocking, when his great pack is empty and his reindeers' hoofs are drumming North Polewards, not to visit civilization for another year—then everybody knows what faces Santa himself.

He has to buckle down to work in his factory, making sure that before next Christmas he has toys enough for all the good boys and girls of all the world. But . . .

The day after Christmas problem isn't so easy for Santa's dozens and dozens of lieutenants, his special deputies who, in this modern age, when Santa's own hands are so full, help him out by representing him in Boston stores, on Boston street corners, and in Boston churches.

Some of these subs for Santa are volunteers, of course, merely donning their red plush and white whiskers for a day or two for the fun of it. Many more of them, however, are just plain folks like the rest of us, and they have to get paid for their work, even if it is for Santa Claus.

On the morning of December 26, all these latter are out of a job, temporarily at least. Finding out what they do when they aren't playing Santa is a quest with a lot of surprises in it.

From the very beginning, one thing is plain. Not one Boston Santa out of 100 is a professional actor, assuming a seasonable role by way of surviving a dull week or two.

It seems that this business of being right hand man to Santa Claus isn't merely a matter of a pillow over a fellow's tummy, a scarlet suit, and a flowing beard. Santas, even substitute Santas, aren't made as easily as that. They have to have the milk of human kindness in them, they have to like children, and children have to like them.

When, therefore, the manager of a big department store picks the man who is going to represent Santa Claus in his toyland, that manager has to be fussy.

Fortunately, the choice is simplified by the fact that most of the store Santas show up for the job year after year.

ELEVEN MONTHS OF CHEERFULNESS

OVER THE BRINY DEEP TO ERIN

Their mother having died, Patrick King of Bowen st., South Boston, decided to send his three children to his own mother in Galway, Ireland, to be educated. Here they are: Joseph, 4; Dorothy, 6, and Anna, 9, sailing today on the North German Lloyd liner Karlsruhe in charge of a matron, to be with their grandma for Christmas and the rest of their young lives.

CURLEY'S YARD HAS A GUSHER

Former Mayor James M. Curley's Jamaicaway mansion had a first-class fountain in its front yard—temporarily, at least—today when Rezzio Sacco of Iffley rd., Jamaica Plain, drove his automobile into a hydrant at Jamaicaway and Moraine st., breaking it off at its base.

Water geysered into the air for half an hour until city workmen could be summoned to shut off the flow. The accident occurred when Sacco turned to keep a basket from bouncing off his machine's rear seat, police said. He was unhurt.

Newton High School Boy Dead in Crash

Morris Seerey, 16-year-old Newton High School junior, died at Weymouth Hospital today of injuries received when the machine in which he was a passenger struck a tree in Cohasset, Thanksgiving Day. Two girls and two young men in the car at the time escaped uninjured.

MISSING GIRL IS FOUND IN REVERE

A long-cold fire and an idea of Motorcycle Officer Arthur W. Sweeney of Revere combined today to find Charlotte May Maguire, 17-year-old Malden girl who vanished Sunday night.

The officer found her in a home in Clifton st., North Revere, where he remembered having seen a strange girl several days ago.

When Officer Sweeney received a state police bulletin broadcasting her disappearance and carrying her picture, he started for North Revere.

The girl was reunited with her parents and promised to go home out the plan.

Hobby of Taking Down Auto Numbers Jails Five Suspects

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Five men are in jail charged with assault and robbery because Fred Anderson, a 13-year-old Brooklyn schoolboy, once victim of hit-and-run driver, made a hobby of jotting down automobile license numbers when he scented trouble.

The boy saw two men dash out of a Brooklyn delicatessen store, pursued by the proprietor. He took the number of the car and turned it over to a policeman. Today police rounded up the two men, charged them with robbing the store, and also arrested three alleged accomplices.

LOVESICK 'WIFE' NO. 2 REFUSES TO EAT

New York, Dec. 7 (INS)—Martha Van Wyen, 16-year-old Sayville (L. I.) girl, who says her heart still cries out for her music teacher and illegal husband Herbert J. Leigh-Manuell, whom she "married" while his wife looked on, has refused to eat since the romance was broken up Wednesday.

But, to quote her father, Cornelius Van Wyen, "she's getting her senses back; she will be all right."

While wife No. 2 listened to her family, Leigh-Manuell was talking what sympathy he could from Wife No. 1, who witnessed his "marriage" to the girl, and who prepared dainties for him, trying to soothe his nerves.

HOPED TO START ANEW.

Both said that perhaps the love tangle climax had cleared the atmosphere in their home and that after the legal end had been settled they would go somewhere else and start anew together.

Mrs. Leigh-Manuel said they had been trying to sell their house for some time so she might get a quiet divorce and thereby enable her husband to marry Martha legally.

Van Wyen said today he considered the action of Leigh-Manuel and his wife especially aggravating because he had sent all his children to Leigh-Manuel to take music lessons.

Van Wyen said he would insist that Leigh-Manuel be given "all the law allows" when convicted of bigamy and perjury.

DEFENDED BY RECTOR

There was a division of opinion in Sayville about the case. Some agreed with Van Wyen. Others believe Leigh-Manuell entered the marriage without realizing the seriousness of his action. Chief of those is the Rev. Joseph Bond, rector of St. Ann's Episcopal Church, in which Leigh-Manuell was organist.

"Certainly, if when a man has fallen his church does not stand by him, nobody will," the rector said, explaining he in no wise condoned the love affair; believed it merited some penalty, but that he was not in favor of any hysterical condemning of Leigh-Manuell.

SAVES WOMEN AT FIRE

Two Braintree women, the 70-year-old mother of John Devine of 71 Elm st. and Mrs. Lena Andrews 60, of the same address were rescued from fire which broke out in the three-story apartment house.

Mrs. Devine was in bed when the house became filled with smoke. Her son carried her to the street in safety. Then he ventured the building in answer to the call for help from Mrs. Andrews, who had taken refuge on a balcony. A ladder was finally secured to effect the rescue of Mrs. Andrews.

The fire started on the first floor in an automobile accessory shop owned by Frank D. Keene and burned through into the living quarters before being extinguished.

705 MOTORISTS LOSE OUT IN LAST DRIVE

As a result of the work of his inspectors alone, 705 motorists have had their registrations revoked since December 1, when the drive against cars with defective equipment started, George A. Parker, registrar of motor vehicles, announced today.

The registrar expects that this number will be greatly augmented when the reports come in from the various police departments throughout the state.

The registrar characterized as "a pretty good scheme" the stunt of the Cambridge police in rigging up a portable headlight-testing station.

At this station last night on Brattle st. 200 automobiles were stopped between the hours of 7:30 and 10 p. m. The tests revealed, according to the police, that 72 per cent of the cars stopped had faulty or improperly adjusted headlights.

HOBO IN SPATS WORKS; YES, HE DOES NOT

New York, Dec. 7 (INS)—The world is Al Kaufman's oyster—and he opens it with a smile.

Al is pretender to the throne of Hobohemia. Says he was elected king of the hoboes at their national convention.

Al dresses like a king, with spats, carefully creased trousers, a symphony of colors, and a cane.

He uses only front doors—in hotels, taxis and restaurants with real cane backs. And he pays only with a smile—so he says.

Al is staying rent-free at one of the well-known hotels in the forties.

"Surely, Al is our guest," said the hotel manager today. "He is a pleasure to have around and he can stay as long as he wants."

But Al is leaving for Chicago in a few days. He is traveling de luxe there to raise funds for a luxurious hobo hotel. Then he will go to Montreal to see his girl. He had one in Miami but she's out of his mind now.

"Ever work?" Al was asked.

"Why work if you have brains," he answered. "Money is the easiest thing to get honestly. Just use the old headpiece and smile when you don't want to talk."

The nearest thing to work indulged in by Al was his appearing in atmosphere in the movies at Hollywood and some years ago as a prize fighter.

Aide Is Speeding to Meet Prince With Outfit of Clothes

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—Sir Geoffrey Thomas, principal private secretary to the Prince of Wales, left London today for Brindisi, Italy, carrying a complete outfit of clothes for the Prince of Wales who, in his rush for home, left Africa almost without any kit.

Sir Geoffrey is also carrying other requisites for the royal traveler.

SOLO FLIER, 17, DOWN AGAIN IN PLANE

Bellefonte, Pa., Dec. 7 (INS)—Pennsylvania's airlanes are proving to be a costly jinx to 17-year-old Richard E. James, who is making a solo flight from Los Angeles to New York.

Today young James' plane is in a field near Kylertown, about 25 miles west of here, with a broken propeller, the second the youthful flier has broken in two days.

James came down in the field yesterday afternoon, after losing his escort plane, piloted by Martin Jenson and carrying James' parents. He hopped off from Mercer, Pa., earlier in the day after several false starts.

BAY STATE MAN DIES BY BULLET ON COAST

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 7 (INS)—George W. Batchelder, 55, commissioner of water works of Worcester, Mass., is dead here today, an asserted suicide.

Leaving the table at which he had been playing bridge with his wife and daughter-in-law, Batchelder walked into an adjoining room and sent a bullet through his head, according to a police report.

Batchelder had been on a leave of absence due to a nervous breakdown and, together with his family, had been visiting here since Thanksgiving Day.

His wife told detectives Batchelder appeared in a cheerful mood last night. A few days ago, she related, his family discovered him examining a pistol.

A son, who is a naval lieutenant aboard the U. S. S Lexington, was notified at San Diego of father's death.

'SPEED' YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY ON 6 CHARGES

Raymond C. Thompkins, 18, the latest Charlestown "speed demon," pleaded guilty to six charges in Charlestown district court today and was ordered held in $2000 bail for a hearing Monday.

Speeding past three policemen on Bunker Hill st., and dashing wildly on under a rain of bullets that whistled from their revolvers, the boy is alleged to have struck and injured Lawrence Sciardo, 23, of Belmont st., before he crashed into a pole and came to a halt.

He was charged with larceny of an automobile owned by Robert Shackford of Newton, unlawful use of the same, operating to endanger and going away from the scene of an accident without making his identity known.

Thes four offenses are alleged to have occurred last night while on November 25 he is accused of larceny of an automobile owned by the Twentieth Century System and unlawful use of it.

HARVARD MAN DIES IN WEST

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 7 (INS)—Prof. Frank Otis Reed, 52, a faculty member of the University of Arizona and formerly of Madison, Wis., is dead here today as the result of an attack of influenza. He died last night after an illness of two days.

A graduate of Amherst and Harvard Colleges, Prof. Reed had been a member of the Arizona University faculty for six years.

Uphold Suspension of Hickman Doctor

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 7 (INS)—Suspension from the Missouri State Medical society of Dr. A. L. Skoog, widely known physchiatrist, was sustained in a report made public here today by the board of censors of the Jackson County Medical society. On May 20 the local society voted 111 to 83 to suspend Dr. Skoog because of his defense testimony in the William Edward Hickman case in Los Angeles.

Man Grabs Live Wire, Thrown Off Engine

Northampton, Dec. 7 (AP)—Joseph Dixon, 40, was burned probably fatally today when he grasped a wire carrying 22,000 volts of electricity at the Boston & Maine car shops where he is employed. He was hurled from the top of an electric engine, suffering a fractured skull.

A few years ago Dion, then a mill worker, was caught in a shafting and many of his bones were broken.

LENGLEN HIDES IN WEST; DIDN'T COME TO WED

Lake Tahoe, Cal., Dec. 7 (AP)—Efforts of reporters to solve the mystery arising out of the visit here of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, went for naught today after they had interviewed every accessible member of the group of persons quartered at the Lake Tahoe lodge of Mrs. Alma Baldwin, hostess of the French woman.

Mlle. Lenglen and a woman, said to be her mother, accompanied by Thaddeus A. Winter, divorced husband of Mrs. Baldwin's daughter, Dietrz, detrained at Truckee, Cal., early yesterday morning and were whisked away by automobile to the seclusion of Mrs. Baldwin's lodge.

The trio arrived from Europe a week ago and successfully evaded reporters in the transcontinental journey from New York. The party's mission has been carefully guarded.

Reporters awaiting at the Baldwin Lodge got their first chance at interviewing when several of the guests, startled in heavy clothing, ventured out into near-zero weather for a snow frolic and to pose before before a guests motio picture camera.

One of the men, who said his name was Nicolov, but who refused to further identify himself, told the correspondents he was spokesman for Mrs. Baldwin. He denied that any marriage was contemplated among the guests, particularly the report that Mlle. Lenglen would become the bride of either Winter or Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of the hostess.

Bloodless Surgeon Awarded Medal

Chicago, Dec. 7—Dr. W. T. Bovie, head of the department of biophysics of Northwestern University, was awarded the John Scott Medal and a premium of $1000 by the city of Philadelphia at a dinner of the Radiological Association of North America.

The medal and the cash were awarded for Dr. Bovie's work in electro-surgery.

Dr. Bovie's development of apparatus for electrical surgery has made possible bloodless and painless operations. His instruments make incisions with an electric current, controlled by freedom from shock and at the same time close severed blood vessels.

College Boys in High Hats

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—There's a big run on high silk hats. It is quite the thing for the university boys to wear them at dances, concerts or whenever girls are visiting.

KIDNAPER SLEW BOY CRYING FOR MOTHER

Detroit, Dec. 7 (AP)—Unconcerned—even nonchalant—Peter Kudzinowski, after confessing he had murdered a seven-year-old boy and killed a fellow worker, told police he had attempted to abduct a small girl and a boy in New York city several months ago and voluntarily added details of the slaying of Joseph Storela, seven, in a swamp near Scarsens, N. J., November 17.

Police of Detroit and several New York cities are co-operating to learn whether Kudzinowski is responsible for disappearance of other children whose fate is an enigma to police of the East.

Brooklyn authorities requested he be questioned concerning the disappearance two years ago of four-year-old Billy Gaffney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gaffney of Brooklyn.

ARRESTED AS DRUNK.

Despite long questioning, however, the 23-year-old former section hand restrained time after time.

"Joe was the only boy I killed."

Kudzinowski was arrested here for drunkenness. His actions in a cell aroused suspicion and questioning brought his confessions. Besides the murder of the boy, he admitted killing Harry Quinn, a fellow worker, in Scranton, Pa., in March, 1924.

After detailing his two unsuccessful attempts at abduction, Kudzinowski said: "I made up my mind Joe wouldn't get away. I fooled him and he didn't get loose like the other kids did."

After persuading the boy to accompany him by taking him to a motion picture show and buying him candy, Kudzinowski said he and the boy took the tube to a swamp near Secaucus.

SLASHED BOY'S THROAT.

His account of the crime ended with the unemotional assertion:

"He yelled for his mother and I was afraid some one on the highway might hear so I took out my pocketknife and cut his throat."

Late that night, he added, he caught a freight train to Scranton, then went to Buffalo, and from there came to Detroit.

He waived extradition and probably will be turned over to New Jersey officers today for return to Jersey City. Authorities at Scranton have not found the body of Quinn, and Kudzinowski pleaded that his memory was hazy on the killing.

Police say he appears sub-normal mentality, although rational in conversation.

NO RUM GRAFT, SAYS ADMIRAL

Washington, Dec. 7 (INS)—A misconstruction has been placed on the 1043 court-martial enumerated in the Coast Guard annual report Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant declared today.

Billard issued the following statement:

"The number of court-martial cases, dishonorable discharges and other penalties on enlisted men of the Coast Guard set forth in the annual report just released have to do almost exclusively with desertions and the ordinary run of military offenses, and have nothing to do whatever with collusion with rum-runners or anything of that sort.

"The morale and discipline of the enlisted force of the Coast Guard is as high as in any other military service under the United States. Instances of grave misconduct in connection with anti-smuggling work have been practically negligible. In the number of court-martial cases listed I do not believe there have been over three cases in a total of 12,000 personnel of conviction of such misconduct."

Says Afghan Rebels Have Been Repulsed

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Lahore, India, today said that Afghan rebels at Jallalabad, where King Amanullah's palace on the outskirts of the town was recently burned, had been dispersed after a short, sharp fight.

The rebellious Shinwaris withdrew in disorder and the tendency of other tribes to join in the uprising appeared to have been checked.

Death Car Driver Pays Fine of $30

Attleboro, Dec. 7—Stewart Gould, Ridgewood, N. J., driver of the car that figured in a South Attleboro accident, fatal to Mrs. Harriet Bergman of 171 Willow rd., Nahant, November 17, was yesterday fined $30 for operating a machine equipped with faulty brakes in the District court here.

Play Can Portray Deity in Knickers

Frankfurt Am-Main, Ger., Dec. 7 (AP)—The Municipal Council today defeated by a vote of 47 to 35 a motion by Nationalists and Catholic Centrist factions that the comedy "Marriages Are Made in Heaven" should be closed. Odor and tear gas bombs were hurled during a performance of the comedy Wednesday night by spectators who objected to the representation of the Deity on the stage in knickerbockers.

4-Year-Old Now Sister of Dad

Yonkers, N. Y., Dec. 7 (INS)—Germaine Hart, four years old, today is the legal sister of her father, as the result of having been adopted by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart. Her mother died recently.

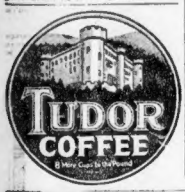
Find Stolen Tug

Detroit, Dec. 7 The tug Gerome, stolen Wednesday night from the customs border patrol slip at Fort Wayne here, was recovered in Canadian waters. It was found moored to a tree near he dquoe export docks at Lasalle, Ont.



17 PERISH IN SHIP CRASH

Iquique, Chile, Dec. 7 (AP)—Seventeen persons were known today to have drowned when the Chilean steamship Quintero sank off Punta Patache, near here, in a collision with the steamship America.

The America rescued the captain of the Quintero and most of his crew and landed them at Iquique. The rescue vessel also had aboard three bodies taken from the water.

Appeals are pouring in.

WILL AUCTION RUBBER PLANT

The worst fears of Converse Rubber Company employes who are also stockholders were realized today when Judge James A. Lowell in federal court authorized and ordered the receiver to sell the plant in Malden at public auction on January 9.

Some of these stockholder-employes wept in court a few days ago while a hearing was in progress on the petition of the bondholders' protective committee for approval of a plan of reorganization and sale of the assets.

According to the receiver, Morton L. Paterson, the proceeds of the sale will probably permit the payment of 28 cents on the dollar to creditors.

Polite Bandit Backed Up by the Rough Stuff

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—"Wa," said one of two men who held up Miss Florence Gartner, "are the polite bandits you read about. Courtesy at all hazards, that's our motto, miss. Now please be so kind to tender to us your purse, your jewels and your fur coat."

At this point the other bandit cracked Miss Gartner over the head with a blackjack.

"This polite stuff is the bunk," he said, yanking the fur coat from Miss Gartner, who had been knocked down.

"Treat 'em rough is my motto."

Judges in Woman's Plot, She's in Jail

Brussells, Dec. 7 (AP)—The newspaper Independence Belge said today that several Belgian judges and prominent lawyers had been selected as directors of a branch of the Gazette du France organization which Marthe Hanau was about to open in this city. Her arrest in Paris halted arrangements. The newspaper said that the local legal lights were not willing to have their identities revealed publicly in connection with the affair.

N. Y. EXPLOSION KILLED THREE

New York, Dec. 7 (INS)—Three dead and nine injured was the toll of the explosion in the chemical plant of the Kill-All Disinfecting Company here, it was announced today after a night search had failed to substantiate reports that other employes were missing.

The dead are Harry Freeman, owner of the company; Andrew Avadillo, a junk collector who happened to be at the plant, and an unidentified employe.

Fire Mashal Thomas Brophy said he believed an electric spark from a motor had ignited vapors from chemicals and caused the explosion.

Entire Mess Bill of Hoover Party Less Than $4 a Day

Aboard U. S. S. Maryland, off Chile (via Arlington, Va., radio station), Dec. 7 — The mess bill of Mr. Hoover and his immediate party, including Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, has been less than $4 a day since the warship left San Pedro, Cal., on Nov. 19, it was revealed today when settlements were made up to December 1.

The entire bill from November 19 to December 1 was $36.

HOOVER MEETS BOLIVIANS AS SHIP GUESTS

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

Aboard U. S. S. Maryland (via Arlington, Va., Radio Station), Dec. 7—Steaming steadily southward, the battleship Maryland today was to be met by a Chilean warship which will act as an escort from the Chilean-Peru boundary line to Valparaiso, Chile.

Valparaiso will be reached Monday. President-elect Hoover and his party will meet important officials of the Chilean government there and will then go to Santiago, the capital, where a big reception is planned.

Tomorrow the Maryland will anchor off Antofagasta, Chile, and Bolivian officials and their wives will then come aboard as luncheon guests of Mr. Hoover.

Although it was believed impractical for the "good-will" mission to meet Bolivian officials on Bolivian soil because the country does not touch the coast and an overland journey would entail too much delay, it was later decided that personal contact should be established by having the Bolivians come aboard the Maryland.

Mr. Herbert Hoover today expressed his thanks to the officers and crew of the Maryland for their efficient seamanship and their excellent care of their passengers.

While there has been no official announcement, it is understood that Mr. Hoover will pay a good-will visit to Mexico. If Mexico is not included on the present tour, the President-elect probably will make a special trip to Mexico City after a few weeks rest in Florida.

Buenos Aires Plans to Greet Hoover Dec. 13

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Dec. 7 (AP)—President-elect Hoover is expected to reach Buenos Aires on December 13 from Chile. He will be received by President Yrigoyen.

On December 14 President Yrigoyen will give a banquet at the government palace. The wife of the governor of the province of Buenos Aires, which included the city and all the neighboring villages, will give a dinner to Mrs. Hoover on the same day.

During the 14th and 15th Mr. Hoover will be taken on visits to various public institutions and buildings, will make a trip on the delta of the Parana river and will see a military review.

Static Today Holds Up Details of Hoover Trip

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Static today was holding up detailed advices from the warship Maryland, en route to Antofagasta, Chile, with President-elect Hoover. Officials of Bolivia were to be received aboard the Maryland at that port today before the vessel continued her goodwill voyage to Valparaiso and Santiago.

FLOOD CONTROL PROBE PLANNED

Washington, Dec. 7 (INS)—An inquiry into Mississippi flood control work will be undertaken by the House flood control committee as the result of wide-spread criticism of the Army Engineers Corps policies, Rep. Frank R. Reid (R.) of Illinois, chairman, announced today.

Major Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of Army Engineers, will be called before the committee soon to explain progress made on the $325,000,000 flod control scheme and give his interpretation of the flood control act.

"There is a dissatisfaction with respect to the interpretation of the flood control act providing for the diversion of waters from the main channel of the Mississippi in the Boeuf Basin, in South Arkansas and Northern Louisiana and into the Atchafalaya river," explained Reid.

"Senators and congressmen and public officials throughout this region indicate a general dissatisfaction with the position taken by Maj.-Gen. Jadwin in carrying out the provisions of the flood control act with respect to these diversions."

HUB ESCAPES COLD BLASTS

The cold wave out of the Northwest, which has been threatening Boston for several days, was moving out to sea today, chilling New Jersey and Pennsylvania with icy breath, but sparing Massachusetts and New England anything worse than a seasonable shiver or two.

Tomorrow, according to the forecaster, will be slightly cooler here than today, with fair and warmer weather in prospect over the week-end.

Disallow N. E. Rail Rate in Northwest

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—By a supplemental decision the interstate commerce commission refused today to let several railroads operating in the Northwest to continue rates to northwestern territory on shipments from New England, the Atlantic seaboard and Canada which are higher than rates from like origin points to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The roads claimed that water competition over the Great Lakes unduly depressed the Twin City rates, and that the roads were entitled to the higher return from tonnage moved to other northwestern points.

There are hundreds of pitiful cases

SCHWAB'S PHILOSOPHY IS JUST ONE STORY AFTER ANOTHER

SPEAKS AT CHAMBER DINNER

The big man with the infectious grin and the snapping dark eyes looked over his audience appraisingly. The representatives of Boston's business world were out on a very sober spree, celebrating the 18th inaugural dinner of the Chamber of Commerce. There'd been a lot of serious eating and a lot of serious talk.

It was a serious situation.

The big man's grin widened.

"Of course," he said, "I can't claim that my folks came over in the Mayflower. You Bostonians have got it over me with your Pilgrim ancestory. I remember, though, what Mark Twain once told me. He said that if he were giving credit, the Pilgrim mothers would get it all. They put up with everything the Pilgrim fathers put up with—and they had to put up with the Pilgrim fathers, too."

The big man laughed.

So did the Chamber of Commerce gathering.

"But you fellows," the big man told the crowd magnanimously, "aren't so hard to put up with after all."

HIS PHILOSOPHY

He was right. They weren't. The party was getting positively congenial.

A waiter, who didn't know the big man, aired the whole thing up.

"Some entertainer, that guy," he said. "I betcha he gets good money."

"That guy" was some entertainer, and he does get good money. He was Charles M. Schwab, multi-millionaire giant of the steel industry and guest of honor of the evening.

"Charlie" was telling "the boys" his philosophy, the fruit of 50 years of phenomenally successful battle with a world that admits to owing nobody a living.

There was nothing ponderous, nothing dismal, however, about the message "Charlie" wanted to deliver. "Charlie" just told some stories.

"If you've heard 'em," he apologized, "you don't need to laugh."

First there was the yarn about me and Andrew Carnegie and the valet. "Charlie told that to show that there's not much profit, after all, in this money grabbing stuff."

It was this way.

A CARNEGIE YARN

"Andy Carnegie and I were on our way to the Pennsylvania State University. We'd given the institution a couple of buildings, and they wanted us to come an see 'em dedicated. I was rich, in those days, and I had a private car. Carnegie never was rich enough to get one. He said he didn't need to be, he had rich friends. He was right. He travelled with me.

"Well, we had to change to evening clothes to go to the shindig at the university. Mr. Carnegie went in to dress first. He borrowed my valet. I had a valet then, too. Now I don't need one. I've got things simplified. I've even found a tailor who's exactly my size so he fits my suits to himself and I don't have to go try 'em on.

"Let's see. Oh, yes, Carnegie was a long time dressing. I went into the car, and he didn't have his collar on. I looked for my valet. He was under the bed. Pretty soon he crawled out and stood up.

"'Mr. Schwab, sir,' he said. 'I'm throwing up my job, I can't work for you any longer.'

"'I felt bad. I asked the man what was the matter.

"'It's too much,' the valet said. 'I can't stand it. Here's you and Mr. Carnegie with the Lord knows how many millions. You can have private cars and you can give auditoriums to universities. And yet, by golly, you've only got one blooming collar button between you—and I've just gone and lost the doggone thing.'"

If Mr. Schwab's hearers had heard that one, they were able to laugh at it anyway.

An Oklahoma cowboy named Steve who taught him a lasso once, Schwab said.

Steve had been called to New York from his native prairie to guide a group of Schwab's British friends on an expedition across the continent in search of game, scenery and thrills. Steve did a good job.

"Come to England," promised the delighted magnates. "We'll give you a high time in your turn."

"TALK HONEST!"

Came the World War. Steve did go to England—with the army. True to their word, his British patrons got him out of camp on leave and they staged a big party for him. It was a formal affair in a formal setting. Steve had to take the Duchess of Westminster in to dinner.

"And I tell you," said Mr. Schwab, "that was tough on Steve. He wasn't any hand at table talk. Finally he got desperate.

"'Pardon me, madam,' says he to his titled partner, 'I dunno richtly what one says to a duchess—but—but-by golly, duchess, you look good to me.'

"And Steve got away with it," chuckled Schwab reminiscently. "You can always get away with anything, if you keep a stiff upper lip and talk honest."

As Chamber of Commerce average, Schwab found Boston's poetry good. It reminded him of himself, en routs to Florida in a Pullman car.

"How much do you usually get tipped George," he asked the porter.

"Well, suh, the average is 'bout a dollar."

Schwab, getting off the train, gave George $20 dollar. George was conspicuously and obsequiously grateful.

"I thought," Schwab told him, "the average passenger always gave you a dollar."

"Yessuh, yessuh, but you's the first gentleman since can remember that has comup to the average, suh."

In quitting his audice Schwab was modestly uncertain as to the worth of his own dissertions just past. He felt obliged, in self defense, to tell the story of the cow he bought at Loretta, Pa.

In Loretta, a small hill town, Schwab is the only resident with any wealth.

"If anybody has anything to sell," he said, "I generally have to buy it. One old fellow brought around a cow. He admitted she wasn't a thoroughbred, was too old and tough to slaughter, and was dry.

"'What good is she?' I asked him.

"'Well,' the owner said, 'there's this about her. She's real good-natured. Any time she ever should have any milk, she'll give it to you.'"

Big and smiling and vigorous for all of his 67 years, Schwab held out his hands to his hearers.

"That's me," he said. "Good-natured. And if there's any of the milk of human wisdom in me, you're welcome to it."

Palestine Greets New Commissioner

Jerusalem, Dec. 7—Official and civic Jerusalem welcomed Sir Wyndham Deedes, the new British high commissioner for Palestine, who arrived here to assume duties in succession to Lord Herbert C. Plumer, who retired after a three-year term. A parade of the Jerusalem police, marching to the British anthem, escorted the commissioner to the Jaffa gate, where a tabernacle was erected for the welcoming reception. Four hundred government officials, consuls and notables were present.

TEST DEVICE TO HELP AIRCRAFT LAND IN FOG

Camden, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—The second of a series of tests of a device to make safer the landing of aircraft in fog was pronounced a success today by officials of the Victor Talking Machine Company, at whose plant the test was carried out with the aid of the navy dirigible Los Angeles.

The new device, called a "super-directional horn," was developed by Lieut. R. C. Mayer of the Los Angeles crew and S. T. Williams of the Victor Company.

It consists of a series of units, operated by vacuum tubes, said to permit the reception by aircraft of directional signals from a landing field.

When perfected, the apparatus is expected to enable the navigator of land aircraft to discover, through differently pitch signals, the compass points of a fog-enveloped field.

Eventually, it was stated, the direction finder will supplement the radio beam.

The giant Los Angeles was the receiving medium in the test while the signals were sent from the roof of the Victor plant. The horn, 20 feet long and 10 feet wide, was connected with a microphone and attached to a record disk.

Inverted Messages by Telephone to Fool Wartime Spies

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Science has devised a new form of code for secret communication in wartime—inverted speech.

A message is unintelligible when it is spoken into a telephone transmitter, but it comes out of a loud speaker on the receiving end correctly. In a demonstration by Bell telephone experts something like "Fay-o-Bono-Jay-Cutt Play-a-Feen Crink-a-Anope" came out of the speaker "Allegheny Mountain Telephone Company."

WEST TO FACE GRILLING ON INSULL JOB

Washington, Dec. 7 (INS)—Secretary of the Interior Roy C. West of Illinois will face the Senate public lands committee Saturday to explain his connection with public utilities, it was announced today.

The session was called by Senator Nye (R.) of North Dakota, chairman, as soon as President Coolidge submitted West's resignation for confirmation.

The President's action took the Senate by surprise as it had been widely rumored West would be continued in office until March 4 under his original recess appointment.

The President, hearing of the rumors, immediately sent West's name to the Senate. It was said West had asked for this action so he could put a stop to the rumors circulated against him.

EIGHT KILLED IN BANANA STRIKE

Bogota, Colombia, Dec. 7 (AP)—The newspaper Espectador said today that eight strikers were killed and several wounded in a clash with soldiers who were attempting to restore order in the Santa Marta banana district.

The newspaper Mundo al Dia said the Minister of War confirmed reports that strikers had been killed, but added that lack of telegraphic communication made it difficult to obtain details.

The executives of several labor bodies conferred with the Minister of Industries in an effort to arrange a peaceful settlement of the conflict.

Jefferson Caffery, United States minister, said he had received no particular instructions from Washington.

SCHENCK SEES PLOT IN FILM SALE RUMOR

Los Angeles, Dec. 7—Vigorous denial of the rumor circulated alleged negotiations for absorption of Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by another film concern was made today from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of the organizations.

In the following emphatic announcement Mr. Schenck refutes the report and expresses the belief that the rumor was started maliciously.

"ABSOLUTELY UNTRUE."

"The story that negotiations were under way for sale of Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to another motion picture concern is absolutely untrue and I wish to deny it in the strongest language possible.

"Were it not for the fact that such reports are apt to do harm this newest motion picture rumor would be the most ridiculously amusing gossip that I have heard in years. As it is, I cannot help feel that this unfair report was maliciously created possibly with the idea of stock manipulation.

RIDICULOUS RUMOR.

"We are at present entering upon the most ambitious program of activities since the inception of our organization. Never before have Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer occupied a position more enviable in the industry than they do today and we are particularly proud of this fact.

"Anyone really familiar with motion picture conditions can appreciate how ridiculous it would be for our organization to even consider negotiations such as those circulated, had they been submitted, which they emphatically have not."

Machines Count Drops of Water

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Many marvelous machines that count are shown at a mechanical engineering exposition. One counts drops of falling water, another registers the number of times a finger is pointed at it.

A third could run 19 years before all the dials would return to zero. Paper money and lines of print can be counted by machine.

20 Gangsters Freed On $200,000 Bail

Cleveland, O., Dec. 7 (AP)—All but one of 21 suspected gangsters arrested in a hotel here Wednesday were free today on $10,000 bonds for their appearance in municipal court on suspicious person charges. Salvatore Lombardino is held without bond for Belleville, N. J., authorities, who want him for the murder of a truck driver, April 6, 1927.

The men obtained their freedom when friends of a family reputed to control the Cleveland corn sugar monopoly pledged $400,000 worth of property to furnish the total $200,000 bail.

Will Answer Berlin Reparations Note

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—The British government has received suggestions from the Prem' government for the draft of a reply to Berlin's note of October 30 regarding the setting up of a new experts' committee on reparations.

It was stated in official circles that these suggestions had been made in the light of various comments of the other powers concerned which had been forwarded to Premier Poincare, and which are now being considered by British experts.

Say New Calendar Upsets Festivals

Athens, Dec. 7 (AP)—The adherents of the old Greek calendar adopted in 1752 which was changed in 1923 are complaining they have been prevented from celebrating festivals in accordance with the old calendar.

Premier Venizelos today requested the Archbishop of Athens to settle the question by permitting such celebrations in special churches. The movement resembles that which occurred in England after the adoption of the Gregorian calendar.

RADIO BALL ON WBZA TUESDAY NIGHT

Six orchestras, including some of the leading musical talent of the country will participate in a radio ball to be staged next Tuesday evening by Stations WBZ-WBZA, broadcast from the Butterfly ballroom at Springfield.

The radio ball will be the most elaborate affair of its kind ever attempted by a New England station. The program will start at 10:10 p. m. and will continue until the early hours of the morning.

The six orchestras will take turns in presenting the dance music for the visible and invisible audiences. They include the bands of Ross Gorman of New York, Bill Tassillo of Hartford, Miner-Doyle of Lowell, and McEneilly, Dick Newcomb and Ernie Andrews of Springfield.

Interludes in the orchestral program will be presented by the Yale Bulldog Trio, Pizzitola Banjo Pickers, Gerald J. Griffin, tenor; and Walter O. Dalley, baritone. In all, nearly 100 musicians will take part in the Radio Show.

EIGHTY SAID TO BE DEAD IN PERU MINE

London, Dec. 7 (INS—Eighty miners were reported killed when a submarine gallery of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Company's mine under Lake San Francisco, near Morococha, Peru, collapsed, said a Central News dispatch from Buenos Aires this afternoon.

According to a cablegram received by the New York offices of the Cerro de Pasco Copper Company today, only 25 men were buried by the mine disaster in Peru. The following cablegram was received in New York from Lima:

"The slope above the level of Lake Morococha caved in from the surface, bringing in a tremendous rush of muddy debris. About 25 men, including G. S. McGregor, shift boss, was buried. No water from the lake entered the mine, and it is believed it is not likely to enter. The lines to the mine are down, so we cannot get full information."

OSCAR WILDE'S OWN LIFE TALE IN NEW BOOK

(Copyright by International News Service.)

London, Dec. 7—For the first time since Oscar Wilde went to Reading Goal, a broken and discredited genius, in 1895, his real story of the events which cast him down from his high pinnacle of literary fame, will be published in his own words.

Crosby Gaige, New York bibliophile, is planning to come to London at the end of this month to secure publication rights for a limited edition of the largest collection of Wilde letters, fragments of hitherto unpublished plays, scraps of unfinished poems, ever assembled.

The publication will rattle the dry bones of a scandal still unforgotten in the London club world, and more than likely cause a bitter storm by men still living and who are mentioned in the secret Wilde correspondence and who played a part in his famous suit against the Marquis of Queensbury resulting in revelations which sent Wilde to prison for two years at hard labor.

Several of these "dynamite" letters are now in the possession of Dulau & Co., 32 Old Bond st., and if the New York Bibliophile publishes them, even in a limited edition, there will be reverberations in London which may revive the old scandal buried for 33 years, it is said.

PATHETIC NOTES INCLUDED

Wilde's youngest son has turned over to Dulau & Co., for sale in part or in whole this remarkable collection of self revelatory documents which were given to him by the late Robert Ross, Wilde's best friend—the "Robbie" made familiar in much of Wilde's published memoirs.

The collection includes besides the manuscript of an unfinished and hitherto unpublished play, "A Woman a Tragedy," hitherto unprinted and perhaps unpublished deletions from his exquisite "Ballad of Reading Gaol," and scores of pathetic notes to friends scribbled on odd slips of papers to be smuggled out of jail during his period of incarceration.

One remarkable circumstance about the offer of the Wilde letters for publication and sale is, that though the Marquis of Queensbury, against whom Wilde brought the fatal suit, is dead, his son, Lord Alfred Douglas, who figured prominently in the trial, is still living. Before catalouging the collection Dulau & Co. submitted it to him and secured his consent to the cataloguing, "in view of their self-revealing and historical interest." But it is a question whether that consent will be given to Crosby Gaige for their publication.

One letter, written on the eve of the tragic Wilde trial, says:

"Dearest Bobbie: Since I saw you, Rosie's (Lord Alfred Douglas) father has left a card at my club with poison words on it. I don't see anything now but criminal prosecution."

WRITTEN ON DEATH BED

The suit against the Marquis of Queensbury ensued.

Another letter to Ross from the jail, says:

"If you are my literary executor you must be in possession of the only document that really gives any explanation of my extraordinary behavior. When you have read the letter you will see its psychological explanation of a course of conduct that from the outside seems a combination of absolute idiocy with vulgar bravado. I am prepared to sit in the grotesque pillory they have put me into, for all time. I do not defend my conduct nor explain it."

The inclusion of this extraordinary document in published collection is what will raise the storm for it is brutally frank and names persons without evasion.

The last letter Wilde wrote from his death bed in the Hotel D'Alsace, Paris, in November, 1900, is tragically humorous, saying he is "poisoned by" Mussels, and when one has had a bath one looks like a leopard."

President Adams Goes on a Reef

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Lloyd's dispatch from Alexandria says that the steamship President Adams, now on a world cruise, was damaged some what entering port, but had resumed her trip, after repairs, for Naples and Genoya.

The dispatch stated that the President Adams struck a reef on her port side, damaging about 200 feet of bilge plating. Leaking was noted only in the engine room and fuel tanks.

The President Adams sailed from New York on a world cruise September 12. After touching at Japan, China, India and Colombo, she arrived at Suez on December 3 for Mediterranean ports and New York and Boston.

Make Record Rum Hauls in Vermont

St. Albans, Vt., Dec. 7 (AP)—Nearly 13,000 bottles of contraband liquor were seized by customs patrol officers in the Vermont district during November, Collector Harry C. Whitehill reported today. Twenty-one automobiles were seized in the district during the month. During the four months ending November 30 the inspectors seized 110 automobiles, a record for the district.

Ninety-six persons were caught last month and fines totaling $822 collected from them.

Pearl Eaton Seeking New Love 'Wreck'

New York, Dec. 7—"Get married again? I probably shall. I wasn't disappointed enough last time."

That's worth a laugh, of course. And that's exactly what Pearl Eaton, former Earl Carroll and Ziegfeld star and ex-stage manager for Charles Dillingham, did after she said it.

She came to New York from Chicago where last month she won her divorce from Harry S. Lavant, motion picture director.

In Another Month Our Boylston Street Store Will Look Like This.

The CONTINENTAL TWO STORES

Boylston at Washington

and at our new store 407 Washington St., opp. Filene's

We're making our Boylston Street Store larger by 1-2 (from 24,000 sq. feet to 38,000); we are adding another entire floor; we're modernizing it, right now we're in the hands of builders, plumbers, carpenters, painters — things are generally upset and they're getting worse. In a very short time our front will be boarded up — we'll have staging everywhere—we may have to use pine board shelving, plain board tables for counters.

FRANCE HONORS DR. KLINE WITH LEGION CROSS

The decoration of Knight of the Legion of Honor has been bestowed on Dr. [illegible] psychiatrist, by the French government upon Dr. Clarence M. Kline, state commissioner of mental diseases, it became known today.

The decoration, in recognition of services rendered the French speaking people in Canada in adopting them as to Massachusetts methods of treating the mentally ill, was conferred during a visit received from Maxime Monnelaise, French consul general in New York.

The citation read: "I have the honor to inform you that in accordance with the decision of the French government in Montreal and in recognition of the services rendered by you to the French speaking people of Canada, the Government of the French Republic has conferred upon you the rank of the Legion of Honor."

A ceremony appropriate to the award will be held.

The debtor asks also that a loan which it wishes to float be granted priority over the old loan which is owned [illegible] by this country after the World War.

The State and Treasury Department Mr. Mellon said, were studying the proposal and [illegible] of the opinion one optional offer should be accepted.

HARVARD SEEKS DENTAL DATA

More than 15,000 questionnaires were sent out today by the Harvard Dental School and Business School in an effort to gather information that will enable dentists to conduct their work on a sounder economic basis.

The research constitutes the first attempt ever made to apply business science to the study of dentistry as a profession.

Dr. Edwin F. Kent and experts from the Harvard business school will collaborate in the survey of what the office part of dentistry costs and will help dentists to follow the procedure found to be most economical.

The questionnaire request detailed information concerning the length of time the dentist has been practicing, the branch of dentistry in which he specializes, the number of hours he conducts his business, the expenses entailed, methods employed, his fees and handling bad debts.

DECLARES AIR HUNT FOR ARK WILL BE VAIN

Rochester, N.Y. Dec. 7 (AP)—The two Cottage men who have aroused their attention by scanning the territory around Mt. Ararat in airplanes in the attempt to locate Noah's Ark and members of the expedition on the Chicago centennial in 1933 will have a beautiful view of the snow-shrouded mountain but little if anything else, it appears to Dr. William F. Edde of Rochester, Pa., and Montgomery Ward, a resident of the New East in war and peace.

Both are in the party of 10 men and women on religious subjects and missionaries to the Near East.

"Although the attempt to get aboard Mount Ararat would show nothing to the passengers, but Mr. Edde, "for the most part the simple reason that the mountain's upper slopes are covered with snow the year round. The region is quite arid, remote and the Kurdish people are not conducive to comfort. Ararat is symbol so often in church services that it is kept in a fair state of repair.

I have lived on all sides of the mountain and am on very friendly terms with the Armenian people who live in the shadow of Mount Ararat, and who have scattered in the region about Ararat since the World War.

"The ark to all accounts must have been a sizable object and if any of the three would have been brought to light long ago."

MOORE SICK IN PERU HOSPITAL

Lima, Peru, Dec. 7 (AP)—Alexander P. Moore, American Ambassador to Peru, who recently returned from the United States, where he had gone to receive his credentials, has been in a hospital at Bellavista since Monday.

Native embassy officials nor his colleagues were inclined to discuss his illness or details, saying only that it was not serious.

(Ambassador Moore, who injured his knee some days ago, has not been in the best of health recently. He left Lima in September for the United States, originally for the purpose of [illegible] but returned to a post several weeks ago.)

1,500,000 Trees Are Given to Towns

More than 1,500,000 trees have been supplied by the state to the towns during the last five years for forestry work.

Chief Forester Harold C. Cook of the state division of forests revealed the facts while addressing more than 100 members of town forest committees in conference at the State House. The conference, it was said, is the first of its kind in the country.

He advised the delegates that the state assistant foresters are ready at all times to advise the towns on all tree improvement cuttings, fire protection and against insects and disease.

"We look forward to the time when the towns of Massachusetts will be managing their forest resources," he declared.

Senator Hiram Johnson, co-author with Rep. Swing of the Boulder Dam bill, showing some of the friends of the measure details of the project on a huge bas relief map of the Lower Colorado river region. The map was made by engineers of the Los Angeles water and power department. A desert area of 50,000 square miles would be benefitted by the project, it is estimated.

ONE OF THREE WIVES WINS HER DIVORCE

Bridgeport, Ct. Dec 7 (AP)—Two of the three known wives of Armand Rashmonoff, former resident of this city but now in federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., appeared in superior court today in an uncontested divorce action one as principal and the other as witness.

The Liverpool, Neron] a Rashmonoff of Bridgeport, was granted a decree from Rashmonoff who was convicted for using the mails to defraud.

The only witness called was Mrs. Rashmonoff number two, who declared she was married to Rashmonoff in Ware, Mass., in 1923. She testified he deserted her soon afterward. She now resides in Gilbertville, Mass., and has not yet secured a divorce.

The third wife of Rashmonoff was Mary Fredekus of Brooklyn who also is still legally married.

'Fresh' With Girls to Win His Ph.D.

Lubbock, Dec 7 (AP)—The professor known as "getting too fresh" was retained today by Morton Phillips, Jr., a post graduate student at the University of Chicago as one way of earning a college degree.

Several young women complained that Phillips had been bold to the point of impudence and insult. At least he established that he was engaged in a special study leading to the degree of doctor of philosophy.

Women Guilty in Store Theft Cases

Pleas of guilty to six counts of larceny were made by Mrs. Emily Nelson and Mrs. Esther Smith, Somerville brothers, in East Cambridge district court, following their arrest in a department store in Central sq.

The cases were continued until tomorrow for disposition. Mrs. Murphy has one child and Mrs. Smith eight.

WORSLEY FETED AT FAREWELL DINNER

More than 300 representatives of the newspaper profession, including news dealers from all parts of New England, met last night to honor Frederick Worsley, circulation manager of the Herald-Traveler, who leaves Boston tomorrow for Albany, N. Y., to become circulation manager of the Times Union.

The testimonial dinner was held at the Cocoanut Grove restaurant, where a program by Jacques Renard and his orchestra and specialty artists interspersed the speeches.

The evening's climax came when Worsley was called upon for a speech. Before he could say anything he was presented with a sterling silver kneel case, in which was a collection of gold pieces. Jean Sammel of the Herald-Traveler art department made the presentation.

Worsley also was presented with a traveling bag by the Mullers' Union, No 1.

Worsley was formerly connected with the Hearst papers in Boston, and his friends on the American-Advertiser staffs turned out to honor him and welcome him back to the Hearst fold.

Representatives of the Herald-Traveler included E. W. Preston, Joseph Sage, Harold Wheeler, Howard Gould, John McMahon and practically the entire circulation department staff. The American-Advertiser was represented by James W. Reardon, [illegible] James Murphy, William Dow[illegible] and Jack Conway. Representatives of the Hotel & Railroad N[illegible] the Armstrong News Co. [illegible] the Union News Co were also present.

Gas... a cheerful, silent servant
All through the Home

Throughout the house, gas lightens your labors—gives you more time for the children—keeps the family comfortable with ever-ready heat.

What would you do without the instant supply of hot water which gas provides—the modern gas range that cooks food quickly and well—the gas radiator or fireplace for rooms where cosy warmth is needed on damp, chilly days!

Then there's the indoor laundry dryer, which lets you laugh at stormy wash days—the gas refrigerator, with its silent, efficient way of keeping food wholesome—and the incinerator in your cellar to burn disease-breeding garbage and trash before they accumulate.

And could you ever go back to an old-style furnace after once experiencing the pleasure of wintering in a home automatically heated by clean, ashless, odorless fuel?

You'll find it interesting to investigate the many, many ways in which gas is helping to solve home problems by providing an all-round service that banishes drudgery and adds to the joy of living.

Call on your gas company for demonstrations of house heating, cooking, water heating, fireplaces, laundry drying, refrigeration, store heating, incineration, garage heating, and many other uses for GAS—THE BETTER FUEL.

Appliances that you desire may be purchased with a small down payment and convenient terms for the balance.

Gas
...THE BETTER FUEL

For the information of the people of New England a series of messages, of which this is one, is being published by the gas industry of New England. They contain interesting facts about GAS—THE BETTER FUEL—and its importance in your home and business.

NURSE FAILS TO WIN LIBERTY FOR LUFKIN

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus to release John W. Lufkin from confinement at the Home Brunswick, followed a decree declaring him insane on the eve of his contemplated marriage to Mrs. Eva R. Walker, his nurse, was denied today by Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court.

Lufkin, who is [illegible] and his kin initiated the action in probate court which led to the decree that he was insane.

Mrs. Walker today said that Lufkin had no relatives, ate well and slept all night and was not ch[illegible] anybody or nurse although she admitted he was feeble and at times his memory was affected.

She said that when she applied for a license to marry Lufkin she did not know a commission of lunacy had been appointed [illegible] court but supposed that a guardian had been appointed over his property.

Coast Guard Rum War Ships to Be Scrapped

Washington, Dec. 7 (INS)—Scrapping of most of the 24 coast guard destroyers employed in anti-smuggling warfare off the north eastern coast probably will be necessary within a short time.

Officers in Washington, obsolete and expensive to keep in operation, Congress will be faced with the problem of replacing these vessels with cutters of other types, competent to maintain the vital guard for [illegible] run ships according to Lieutenant Commander Irving J. Mills.

The problem of replacement will come up probably in the 1930 budget, the first item of which is sent to Congress by President-elect Hoover, Mills said.

There are many naval destroyers lying idle, but because of the cost of reconditioning and expense of maintenance it would not be advisable to use them.

Colonial Wintergas

EVERY motorist is familiar with those engine-symptoms that herald cold-weather's approach. Hard-starting—excessive "choking"—sputtering and spitting—sluggish acceleration—loss of power and decreased mileage. For years, various methods have been tried out—to overcome these difficulties. But it remained for Beacon—with its complete control of every step in production from the crude oil right to your car—to perfect a gasoline that would approximate summer performance on winter days.

The special processes that removed "borderland" mixture from New Colonial Gasoline were carried still farther with new COLONIAL WINTERGAS. Those elements that retarded starting, impeded acceleration, and cut into power and mileage, were eliminated by selective refining that resulted in a gasoline of unusual volatility for swift, complete vaporization—and at the same time possessing ample "body" to insure full power-charges.

COLONIAL WINTERGAS is now on sale at our hundreds of Colonial Filling Stations and thousands of Colonial Dealers throughout New England and New York. Try it—and find the complete solution of your greatest winter-driving problems. There's NO extra charge for Colonial's EXTRA Quality.

RADIO MARRED BY 'UNDEAD' SONGS

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

THE AIR IS FULL of music which is undead." Songs that have passed out of normal earthly existence seem possessed of some evil spirit which does not permit them to repose in peaceful graves. The Federal Radio Commission should instruct every old dutch professor of the occult and, with the aid of sweet basil & some of your favorite incantations and exorcisms, would seek out these restless roundabouts, bind them with wooden stakes and bring them to rest in the holy ground of forgotten melodies.

VOCAL VAMPIRES

RUTHLESSLY, radio station directors throughout the land are coaxing these baroque musical ghosts from their unsung tombs. Songs which gave joy for a day, perhaps hitting a popular tune of the moment, and passed on with decent self respect, are now paraded in the open with shameful disregard for their hopeless, helpless nakedness, their tragic hopelessness. Were-wolves of the air, they howl into every loud speaker in the land. Vocal vampires, their flailing wings, drip graveyard decay upon the healthy living creations of our present and drain the life-blood from today's inspiration.

ORGY OF REVIVALS

THERE ARE SONGS, as there are personalities, that will never die. But these are the exceptional few. The vast majority of us, and the vast majority of the tunes which we see born, must pass away and leave this busy world unlittered with our memories. But the radio would not have it so. Nary a night passes without some dishing up of defunct ditties. Tonight we are going to have an orgy of them in the new Columbia feature, "Then and Now." Typical of the disinterred lyrics is that old warhorse, "There Are Smiles that Make You Happy When will radio programs directors discover that there are millions of former service men who detest this song from beginning to end? Our soldiers had its ghastly smiles forced upon them willy nilly by rotund and well-fed song leaders in camp and cantonment night after night, month after month, and their only joy came at the solitary moment when they could maliciously pervert a single monosyllable in the equally detested "K-K-K Katy."

FAIR FORECAST

THERE DOESN'T APPEAR to be much reason for the ladies and gentlemen of the press downtown to work up a state of high blood-pressure in anticipation of what the less imaginative of the broadcast indicates programs that will be fair but not so hot, with low barometric pressure in the east and middle west. Xylophone solos will cause slight local disturbances, followed by "Train" and a "Japanese Sunset." Tonight's brightest spot is probably the National Concert Bureau hour at 10:15, with the spotlight focussed upon the American tenors. If you're fond of the classics, of course there's "Ilsee Dee Doodle Doo," recently made famous by Rudy Duke (you're broadcast at 7 through Double You Bee Zee.

EDUCATIONAL HOUR

TODAY, Walter Damrosch talks to the children of Grades 5 and 8. With his orchestra he will demonstrate the complexities of a fugue, a suite and the Prelude and Love-Death of Richard Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde." This looks like a rich dish for the babies, but the masterful Dr. Damrosch will be able to hold his difficult audience with the same facility as he has in the past.

One wonders just how he is going to make clear to the children many of the high subtleties which have formed the fusion of Brain Trust and fair Fault. At all events, Damrosch broadcasts, whether for infants in arms or for full-grown ears, are by far the most interesting things on the air. It will make his concert tomorrow night.

Smyrna Suffers From Big Flood

Constantinople, Dec. 7.—The historic city of Smyrna, located frequently in its long history by fire and earthquake, now is suffering from a serious flood. A week's deluge of rain caused nearby rivers to overflow, and all lower quarters of the city and neighboring villages were inundated.

Two persons were drowned in Smyrna during the week's first onslaught, while the number of deaths in the country districts still were unknown because of the interruption in communication.

Plan Broadcast All Over Europe

Milan, Italy, Dec. 7.—The local broadcasting station has arranged to begin next week full transmission of the La Scala's operas on a wavelength which, it is hoped, will permit them to be heard throughout Europe and the United States.

The wave-length used will be 549 meters.

"KER-CHOO"

Stop that COLD in the Sneeze Stage

No need to "doctor" days for a cold and to run the chance of having it develop into grippe or flu. Take the thing that's specifically for a cold—HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE tablets. These famous tablets end a cold in twenty-four hours, because each combines the four helps required:

1. Breaks up the Cold
2. Checks the Fever
3. Opens the Bowels
4. Tones the System

That's the quick and complete action a cold requires and only HILL'S supplies it.

POPULAR FILM COMING TO HUB

That popular and amusing story of Edna Ferber's, "Mother Knows Best," has been picturized by Fox and will be shown next week at the Olympia and Fenway Theatres. Madge Bellamy is the star.

It is a peculiarly vivid story of the stage, having as its central figures a talented child actress and her hard-working mother. It is said that the story was written with the life of a famous actress in mind.

The child is so completely possessed and dominated by the mother that nothing or nobody is allowed to interfere with her extremely successful career.

Gentlemen friends are summarily dismissed once the dread eye of Mother falls upon them, situations of the strife we said so previously excellent comedy and no little irony is the film progresses.

Day of Obligation Observed Tomorrow

Masses will be celebrated in all of the Catholic churches tomorrow, the feast of the Immaculate Conception and a holy day of obligation. Cardinal O'Connell, who will be 69 years old on this day, will celebrate the 10 o'clock mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

RUTH DRAPER IN NEW PROGRAM

Ruth Draper, famous character artist, gave her second program of the week at the Plymouth Theater last evening.

The new series embraced an equally wide variety of characters as those she presented at her opening performance last Monday night.

Unassisted by a single supporting player, orchestra or even a stage band Miss Draper delineates her characters on a stage bare of scenery or properties save a few plain drapes and an old table or chair she uses no makeup and there are no changes of costume other than a small shawl or slight wrap.

One by one the characters appear. The most notable of last night's series was the well-to-do society matron who is rushed to death with news in one.

The second is called "The Italian Lesson." In it the busy mother, with the most appalling ease of manner tries to learn Italian from a tutor at home. With books in hand she practises the most amazing chicanery over the telephone, calls after the children, has her maids done, greets morning callers and, in short, finds time for everything but the one sum by the fateful "Italian lesson."

The audience was vastly amused.

Dave Shade Favorite in Bout With Flynn Tonight

FLOWERS TACKLES JADICH

Jack Britton Also on All-Star Card at the Garden Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

DAVE SHADE, one of the leading threats for Mickey Walker's world's mi lleweight championship, and Arthur Flynn of Lawrence will top a brilliant all-star card at the Boston Garden tonight.

There will be four bouts and each is slated to go 10 rounds. As the rival battlers are well matched, the fans should witness plenty of action.

Shade has made a business of making life miserable for Mickey Walker. When Walker was the welterweight champion, Dave was his most persistent challenger. He finally got the Toy Bulldog into a ring and only lost out when Mickey made a sensational 15th round rally.

Walker then stepped into the middleweight class and won the title from Tiger Flowers. Shade also put on a few pounds of weight and is once more thundering at Mickey's heels.

Dave has knocked out Jimmy Slattery, defeated Georges Courtney and held the brilliant Rene De Vos even.

Shade will enter the ring a favorite, but will have to step along at a merry clip if he is to outscore Flynn. The latter is one of the best of the new crop of middleweights.

Flynn knocked out Nando Tassi in sensational style, while he gave Tuffy Griffiths an interesting evening in Chicago.

THE ten-round tussle between Johnny Jadich of Philadelphia and Bruce Flowers of New York is also sure to furnish action. Both of these boxers appeared in local rings with Honeyboy Finnegan as an opponent and made good showings.

BOSTON GARDEN RING HANDOUT

DEKUH IS HERE FOR GO WITH SHARKEY

Lee P. Flynn, the famous Silver Fox, has arrived here with his Arthur DeKuh, the big Italian heavyweight, who is to battle Jack Sharkey at the Arena on Monday night for the Arena A. C.

The arrival of Flynn comes under the head of bad news for the local heavyweight. Flynn was manager of Jack Dempsey on the night Dempsey won the "Was it fair or was it foul?" fight from Sharkey in the Yankee Stadium.

Flynn carefully led up to the happenings on that night by declaring continually and insistently that Sharkey would foul when hit in the body, and that Dempsey would positively hit him in the body and did hit.

When Dempsey started throwing them a bit below the equator, and Referee Dineen stirred a ruling for the white cloud, prepared by Flynn and others, was sure that the words of Flynn were convincing, and Sharkey had very little to say as a result.

Now Sharkey is tentatively matched with Dempsey again provided that he wins decisively at the Arena. Willis K O Gardner in Jersey, Tom Heeney in February, and Paddy Logan in March. If once more Leo P. Flynn is barring his path toward the heavyweight championship of the world.

Tom Heeney and Jack Sharkey could come in the eighth round over Lou Lesnes and Jack Humbeck, a pair of trumpets all duly and Frank Lou ino a middle Rabby featherweight affair opposite Cap Coleman of the Navy Yard.

In a six-rounder, Mike McGowan the Irish Ace of Stables will meet Bert Monroe of New York, and in a four-rounder Eddie Risson provincial lightweight meets Jimmy Zeigler of Worcester.

Matchmaker Bob M Kirby is still awaiting for an opponent for Dempsey Willis Smith of Boston, who is to appear in another six-rounder.

Tilden Tops Philly List

Philadelphia, Dec. 7 (AP)—William T. Tilden, former national tennis champion, again has been placed at the top of Philadelphia's list of tennis rankings.

Tilden, who is under a suspension by the United States Lawn Tennis Association because of [illegible] heading the rankings in the district for many years.

R. Norris Williams, former Davis Cup candidate, was placed second in the ratings, and Howard Kinsey, Samuel Gilpin, Lloyd Dabb [illegible] ing, fourth, and Donald Strachan, fifth.

MILITARY MEN MAKE GAY TONIGHT, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Big Service Ball to Be Held in Ballroom of the Hotel Copley-Plaza

TONIGHT IS THE NIGHT OF THE BIG SERVICE BALL. When saxophones wail and trombones blare through the Copley [illegible] and crepe exhilaration and the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps, its corporals, privates, top sergeants and [illegible] take sways in the mazes of syncopation with its generals, commodores and colonels. The sailor lad ashore for [illegible] time, the gallant Marine bathes himself with perfume and [illegible] and the lad who "donned the khaki and took [illegible] as a Pershing—all forswear regard for rank and precedence. Salutes are forgotten and obeisance is nil.

IT'S THE ENLISTED MAN'S NIGHT. GENERALS WITH THEIR stars, colonels with their eagles, admirals with their wide gold stripes, are extra ornaments to a picture that is animated by the rank and file. And the big show of the evening is the prize drill, with Army, the Navy and Marine Corps and the National Guard picked teams drilled to the minute and each out to win the Democratic Cup. Seventeen Com. No. Naval Marine Corps for three years, [illegible] Fifty-fourth Infantry. Now the second banner for its possession and intend to wrest it from the seasoned soldiers.

SOCIETY ALWAYS SMILES ON THE SERVICE BALL. IT sanctions it, attends, it officiates as boxholders and as committees. The box list is most inspiring—containing as it does the names of Mrs. M. Graeme Haughton, Mrs. Pierpont L. Stackpole, Robert F. Herrick, L. Tucker Birr, Horace Binney, Mrs. Henry Parkman, B. H. Bristow Draper, L. Carteret Fenno, Donald M. Prince, Malcolm Preston Brown, Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike, Miss Elizabeth Lowell, Mrs. Prentiss Shepard, James F. Jackson, Mrs. Edwards Webster, Mrs. George R. Agassiz, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Bernard Moffatt and many others.

MRS. RONALD T. LYMAN at the head of the ball committee is an ornamental asset in executive—the financial success the ball is sure to have attests to these qualities and the skill with which her associates co-operate. Rear Admiral Philip Andrews, Mrs. Andrews, Commander Nathaniel Farwell Ayer, Maj.-Gen. Brown, Mrs. Brown, William E. Chamberlain, Malcolm Greenough, Guy Murchie and Mrs. Murchie, Harrison G. Reynolds and Lieut.-Col. Walter Pratt and Mrs. Pratt, Henry Parkman and Mrs. Robert Livermore are among the directing heads for this enormous and colorful ball.

THE WILL TO ACHIEVE flashes in the bright blue eye of Miss Marjorie Morrill of Dedham as she packs up her most prized and trusted tennis racquets and prepares to depart for the Riviera. There are in the social set many agile young women who play a smashing game of tennis. But not all of them, like Miss Morrill, is recognized by international players as worthy of their mettle. Last year she played tennis all up and down the Riviera, moving from one sun-drenched court to another under soft, semi-tropical skies.

MISS BETTY NUTTHALL, the brilliant young English tennis star, was one of Miss Morrill's opponents across the nets. This year the usual galaxy will be playing and so a long season is anticipated. Mrs. Joseph Morrill and Miss Morrill are leaving Tuesday, and plan to be away until spring has rolled around again and the outdoor tennis in Northern climes is at hand for Miss Morrill's attention. The preliminary "packing" for overseas includes mainly the paraphernalia of tennis; not the smart frocks she will wear. These are to be acquired in Paris where couturiers devote much time and ingenuity to creating garments for le sport and the American invasion.

RAPTUROUS INDEED IS the way of the debutante who "comes out" in Boston and then goes back "home" with mother to make a bow in the Baltimorean tradition-bound way, as mother did, via the gorgeous "Monday" cotillon at the flower-filled Lyric. Miss Helen Gilman Nichols of Cambridge and Miss Dorothea Ware, also of Cambridge, had kinship ties with First Family Marylanders that made the journey to the Oriole City an imperative part of first winter procedure. And last Monday they were presented along with three score and ten other debutantes. It was a brilliant spectacle.

BOUQUETS WERE EVERYWHERE. The fragrance from a thousand thousand roses, violets, orchids, chrysanthemums, gardenias, valley lilies, all the floral tokens sent in appreciation to the 73 debutantes, filled the air. There was a garden scene, the stage set for supper behind a pergola laden with smilax and red rambling roses. The Lyric's old gold draperies, come down through the years since grandmother made her bow, lent their familiar glory to the scene. Tall gold candelabrum lighted the stage and the boxes where buds received. And Maryland's youthful pulchritude danced the first figure of the german, the figure dedicated to the buds those many

MISS NICHOLS, GRANDDAUGHTER to the late Dr. Alan P. Smith and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gilman Nichols, had for partner in the german Robert Barton, and for her presentation frock a white tulle with silver bodice and pearl girdle. Miss Ware, granddaughter of Mrs. James Lindsay and daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Lindsay Ware, had a graceful gown of white chiffon, and was escorted by George Love. The Boston contingent at the super exclusive Baltimore affair also included a lovely bride-to-be, Miss Barbara Forbes, who will be some day in the future Mrs. Arthur Hall, Jr., of Baltimore.

LUXURIOUS WRAPPINGS molded from soft pelts of wild beasts for the fairer and more ornate sex have their places in Milady's wardrobe the entire year around. Most of these necessities are shopped for, exchanged for dollars and cents in a manner quite prosaic. The real thrill in owning a rich fur garment comes when one actually hunts for it, goes into the deep African jungle on the animal's trail and then has the trophy of the chase fashioned into something to wear in metropolitan centers.

LADY HEATH SPORTS such a garment, one of the soft, golden yellow leopard coats with dense black spots, the prize of her skill and coolness in the hunt. That venturesome Englishwoman, who soon lifts her aero wings and flits away into the blue is a sure shot. During two years of life on an African farm there were opportunities made for sallies into the jungle after big game. And intervals of African flights—the long one from London to Cape Town, all of which Lady Heath talked about last evening at the Hotel Statler, to benefit the Christopher shop.

BARE LOVE RAID IN SUIT AGAINST MEDFORD WIFE

Eleven Guests Too Much for the Hostess

Jersey City, Dec. 7 (INS)—For months Mrs. Pearl H Nerdinger, 21, lived happily with her husband and child in their five-room house here. Then her mother died in Ohio and her father and ten younger brothers came here "for a visit." Six weeks passed and the "guests" still stayed on.

There were eleven additional mouths to feed, a huge stack of dishes to be washed and dried, and four times as much housework. Discouraged by the extra work, Mrs. Nerdinger took poison three times, according to police.

Today, following her third attempt to take her life, a special policeman was assigned to watch over her and "keep her from committing suicide." He went to the residence in an attempt to remedy the situation.

Story of a "Good Gunman" and His Battles

CHAPTER 34

EDDIE was astonished at Tom Freeman's avowal. The fact was incredible, but there stood Tom Freeman before him. His face marked and discolored from blows, with his mind quickened. Behind his battering a miner, Eddie began to realize with dawning, there was an unmasked ruthless.

"We can't carry on this grudge without making fools of ourselves," Freeman said, finally. "Besides we're going to start people talking unpleasantly about Marian if we don't put an end to it. And she's a fair girl and she's treated me right. I ain't a bad kid, Eddie. Let's shake."

Eddie was confused and angry, to hear his name called so familiarly. Tom Freeman had not been unknown. But he took the offered hand.

"We ought to be ashamed of the mess we're in."

"Let's all go back and tell her we've become friends and she's forgiven us," Freeman said, eagerly. "She'll be glad to hear it."

"Wait a minute," Eddie said, suddenly. "Marian doesn't know that you kicked me in a square stand-up fight. I forgot to tell you that. Boy, you sure can't hard—I must have been unconscious for half an hour."

"I think you hit your head on something when you fell."

Freeman rubbed his jaw reflectively. "Well, I got no kick coming." He grinned ruefully. "If Marian and her father want to stand for you—it's all right with me."

"That's the way I feel about you, too," Eddie told him.

Marian returned to the room, her eyes widening with surprise at the apparent amicability between the former enemies.

"Oh," she said.

Freeman smiled at her sheepishly. "We've patched it up," he told her. "From now on we're both going to behave."

She looked from one to the other, Eddie's face, except for a red blotch on his temple, was unmarked, but Freeman's countenance was purple in spots and swollen. Both of them were as embarrassed as schoolboys. Neither of them could possibly know the shade of relief she felt at this avoidance.

"Well, in that case, suppose we all go downstairs?" This was her own house and, however bizarre the circumstances, she maintained her poised air of hospitality. "I think you two have behaved with perfect idiocy—but I'm simply delighted you have come to your senses at last; do you feel all right now, Tom?"

Freeman rubbed his jaw reflectively. "Well, I got no kick coming." He grinned ruefully. "If Marian and her father want to stand for you—it's all right with me."

"I think you two have behaved with perfect idiocy—but I'm simply delighted you have come to your senses at last; do you feel all right now, Tom?"

"I Don't Feel Like a Million Dollars," He Declared

"I don't feel like a million dollars, but I'm pretty good," he responded.

There was no necessity of her inquiring about Eddie's condition; obviously, he was clipper and filled with a repressed cheerfulness. Downstairs, Freeman decided to drive on home and, temporarily at least, gave his rival in possession of the field.

"I didn't have a date here tonight and you did," he told Eddie.

Marian looked at him with more suspicion than tenderness. He had suffered a severe physical jolt and there remained with her a fear that he had not quite recovered. No man who had been knocked unconscious could possibly be entirely recovered so soon.

"I don't feel right about letting you go home alone," she said. "Even if you do feel all right now, you might get worse before you get home. Maybe you ought to have some kind of a stimulant."

"I think maybe you're right," Freeman said. "I'll try a shot of your father's corn liquor."

"A small shot," she agreed, and brought it to him. They all went out on the front veranda and sat in wicker furniture while Freeman finished his drink.

"You sir, it was one dagrone hot fight while it lasted," Freeman said reminiscently, as he sat down his glass. "I reckon I'm not the man I used to be—or I wouldn't have passed out so sudden, but I don't want to take any credit away from you, Regan. You are a hard-fisted scrapper and you got plenty of nerve, even if I hate you—which I don't. I'd have to give you that much credit."

"You had me licked up to the seventy second," Eddie said, good-naturedly.

"You are both idiots," Marian declared but somehow there was nothing to her words—she could call them idiots—and it made it sound like a compliment.

They were surprised when the headlights of an automobile turned into the driveway. Marian's father, unexpectedly, had come home, a friend had driven him out from the station. Marian's mother had not returned, but would be back the next day.

Marian ran down to the car to meet her father and followed her and picked up Mr. Thorndike's baggage. Together they came up on the veranda. Eddie rose to his feet.

"How do you do, Mr. Thorndike," he said, slightly uncertain.

The older man looked at him with a faint surprise. "Good evening Mr. Regan," he said, a trifle stiffly.

Suddenly, his eyes in the better light, lit upon Freeman's bruised and discolored face.

"My goodness, Tom! Want on earth is the matter with your face—you look like you've been fighting."

"No," Freeman lied, "I slipped on the stairs at home this afternoon and fell down. I just dropped over for a few minutes—going home now."

Somehow, the atmosphere became noticeably awkward. Freeman was going, they felt, and the return of Marian's father had spoiled Eddie's evening and he, too, was ready to go.

Surely Marian would realize that he deserved some evening shortly in compensation.

"I think I'll go along too," Eddie said.

CHAPTER 61

A WIDE moved door at the far end of the Rajah's bedchamber was softly receding to a mere slit. Through that portal two pairs of eyes were watching the scene within.

Prince Kashiara Pita, his quest, and the maid with rare presence of mind had command to the girl pressed down the electric button. Three pairs of feet were heard in the passage. Suddenly, Shave plans in case from a declining position at the door. Then, with a long moan, dropped with tears of love and terror.

The two had passed seats. One of the men turned and as he came to a taper to free other, dare

North, holding Kch, Ucups in sequence opens the bidding out for the purpose of preventing the Declarer if possible from making small trumps by ruffing and also to indicate to his partner that he prefers himself not to be forced. Upon the display of the Dummy, Declarer realizes that the situation is hopeless against the trump opening and that his only chance of taking an extra trick or two is by ruffing a Heart or by throwing the lead so as to make one of his kings. He leads the 10 of Hearts.

South wins the trick and leads another Heart upon which North discards a small Spade.

Remembering North's expression of a desire not to be forced South disbelieves the Heart lead rather than continue and gives North an over ruff and now leads the four ing 13 of Diamonds through West's hand, appreciating that North's show of weakness in Spades by discard is much like of strength in Diamonds as partial justification for his original bid.

From this point Declarer can do nothing to stop the massing of the set against him.

The subject of Monday's article will be "Giving Unauthorized Information."

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions pertaining to bridge [illegible]

FAITH IN OTHERS

BY LUCY LOWELL

IN all my years of conducting this column it has not as a rule been my habit to answer a question in a strange name the letter received today from a New England girl, part of which I shall reproduce.

"Dear Friend—In a recent article you wanted to know why people doubt unproven truths. . . . I am herein answering your question. It's because those people are wise and have learned to mistrust their fellow men and women as I have. I, too, once accepted unproven statements as truth. I believed that the great majority of people were honest. (Yes, I even was fool enough to believe that.)

"I suffered, but I learned, and now I know that the great majority of people are thoroughly dishonest. "Dishonesty pays, too. I've found that out. The meaner you are, the better you succeed. . . . I know a man who is a blessed angel where there are witnesses and a vicious brute to his own daughter. He is [illegible] was to his wife . . . I asked him [illegible] THOROUGHLY DE-BUNKED. Oh, my dear—my dear—the cruelty of it! Aggressive! I see it in all doors, in [illegible] to some out there and talk and talk and talk with you.

A miserable experience has come to you—I know this—but why do you let it darken your days so? Don't you know that it is not faith in others you think you have lost, but faith in yourself? Look at it this way, my dear friend: You were honest enough to write as you did (even if you did "cover your tracks," which is not important), and if there is honesty in you, isn't there honesty in others as well? You, out of all the world, cannot be the only one who knows fineness!

Nor do I believe you "thoroughly de-bunked." Isn't it possible that you are being a little bunked by the fear of bunk?

ATLANTIC PUBLIC UTILITIES, INC.
BOSTON, MASS.

To all Holders of Common Stock, both Class "A" and Class "B" of Atlantic Public Utilities, Inc.:

Your Corporation has acquired a controlling interest in North American Water Works Electric Corporation, a Delaware corporation, (formerly North American Water Works Corporation) through the acquisition of a substantial majority of its Common stock, and simultaneously with this acquisition North American Water Works & Electric Corporation is acquiring Maine State Water & Electric Companies and Eastern Carolina Service Company together with the electric light and power companies formerly owned by Cleveland Southwestern Railway Company. Your Corporation is also acquiring through stock ownership Union Waterworks Corporation and the Cleveland Southwestern Railway & Light Company. Various banking contracts have been entered into to provide a portion of the necessary funds for these acquisitions and it is proposed to raise the balance of the purchase price through the issue of about 90,000 shares of additional Common stock Class "B" of your Corporation.

Your Corporation now offers to its Class "A" and Class "B" stockholders the right to subscribe at the price of $15.00 per share its Class "B" Common stock to the extent of one-half share for each full share of Common stock Class "A" or Class "B" held of record at the close of business November 24, 1928.

Chase & Gilbert, Inc. has underwritten these subscriptions and agreed to take up for its own account any stock not subscribed for by the stockholders. Various responsible banking houses have in turn agreed to re-underwrite any of the above stock not taken up by Chase & Gilbert, Inc.

On completion of the above financing, the consolidated balance sheet of your Corporation and subsidiaries (as prepared by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Company from their audit of the constituent companies, and the statements of your officers as to finance arrangements now completed) discloses fixed capital, at estimated values of cost plus subsequent additions and including investment in subsidiary companies at appraised equity value, of $46,633,964, and total assets of $54,612,430, including current assets substantially in excess of current liabilities. The equity remaining for the Common stock Class "B" after deducting all prior securities, including Preferred stocks and Common stock Class "A" at liquidation value, will be substantial and at least equal to $15.00 per share, and based on current earnings there will be available for Common stock Class "A" and Common stock Class "B" an annual amount of over $300,000 after deducting prior charges of the Corporation and its subsidiaries for interest, dividends and minority common stockholders' interests, but before depreciation and income taxes. The Corporation will thus be in the best financial position, both from a point of view of assets and earnings, of any time in its history.

Holders of Common stock of both Class "A" and Class "B" have been mailed bearer warrants entitling them to subscribe at $15.00 per share to that number of additional shares of Common stock, Class "B," which shall equal one-half the number of whole shares of either class of such Common stock standing of record in their names as of the close of business November 24, 1928.

Stockholders owning an odd number of the shares of either of such Classes, will receive, in addition to a full share warrant, a fractional warrant for one-half share. Warrants should be exercised by forwarding the same to The Atlantic National Bank of Boston, 10 Post Office Square, Boston, Massachusetts, with either cash or a certified check to the order of Atlantic Public Utilities, Inc. for the purchase price of the said shares at $15.00 per share, together with the endorsement upon the reverse of the name and address, to which shall be issued certificates for the shares so purchased.

Rights under fractional warrants may be exercised only upon obtaining another fractional warrant and forwarding both warrants to The Atlantic National Bank at the above address together with a certified check to the order of Atlantic Public Utilities, Inc. for $15.00 cash in like amount. In this way one Class "B" share may be obtained. Your Corporation will not honor a single half share warrant and will not issue a certificate for less than a full share.

While your Corporation will not deal in warrants or rights, various investment bankers will do so

All rights will expire at the close of banking hours on December 15, 1928, and no subscription will be received after such date

DIALOGUE WILL BE OMITTED FROM FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.

LOS Angeles, Dec. 7—Joseph Schenck has the courage of his convictions. He has recently given out a statement in which he says the talking pictures will not endure. Now we have word that "The Love Song," renamed "Lady of the Pavements" when released, and directed by D. W. Griffith, will be minus dialogue.

This is what happened. When United Artists got ready to incorporate spoken lines William Boyd and George Fawcett, two of the principal players, had other engagements. Pathe had started Boyd on a starring vehicle. To get him back would have cost U. A. almost $200,000.

Both Lupe Velez and Jetta Goudal, who have the feminine leads, speak with a marked accent and different accents at that. They could not learn to speak the lines without some trace of an accent. "Lady of the Pavements" was started before this furore over sound pictures began, when accents were unimportant.

Of course, this does not mean "Lady of the Pavements" will not have synchronization, there will be songs by Miss Velez and music. Sometimes it's a genuine relief to have a picture without sound, then again sound helps mightily. It's a question that is by no means one-sided. This is the first case of sound being withdrawn.

THE best laid plans of mice and men "gang aft agley," if you will pardon my Scotch. I just had Ruth Roland in mind for the part of the lead in "Trial Marriage" with a story and everything when along came Ann Harding. Varlea and Columbia at the eleventh hour had come to the parting of the ways.

Janet Roberts has been signed instead of Forbes and with Norman Kerry will here opposite Sally Eilers in the picture. It certainly hope our studios will soon get their fill of these trial marriages.

My goodness, Judge Ben Lindsey started something when he decided to film his theme on companionate marriage. It's a subject that always helps along a temperamental box office. "Trial Marriage," as I stated before, is an all-talkie and Thelma Todd has also been signed for one of the important parts.

Harry Cohn in making the announcement states that Jack Holt and Kerry's part is fully as big as that of Jason Robard's and just because we don't want to be a one-man starring trouble we repeat Cohn's words.

THERE have been many tests and many conferences and what not on the "Fox" in an effort to get just the right leading lady for Paul Muni, who is to be starred in "Alkali Ike," well known Cosmo stage play. Muni, whose real name is Muni Weisenfreund, is one of the best Hebrew character actors on the American stage today and his first Fox picture is being built to show to view to giving him just the right sort of vehicle and support.

Marguerite Churchill has been chosen as his leading lady and since he comes from the Fox stage play, Muni, naturally they will both be well qualified to speak their lines. Of course, it's a talkie, that is to W. K. Howard's next and incidentally his first sound picture.

A LITTLE bird whispered to me some weeks ago that Famous Players-Lasky were considering engaging pretty little Sylvia Beecher, who achieved considerable fame on the stage. Here in Los Angeles at the studios, Mack Sennett will name the girl as the successor to Phyllis Haver. Sennett's newest find is Vida Dana shopping for Christmas, also Evelyn Brent and Ruth Roland. That's all today, see you tomorrow!

JOHN A. RUSH
President of Brown Shoe Co., who reports footwear demands better, with over $8,000,000 of new business recently shipped and billed.

Maurice Chevalier's leading woman. Some weeks have elapsed since I printed this as a rumor.

Now D. P. Schilbarg and all the busy executives on the Paramount lot announce that the rumor has become a true happening. Miss Beecher will start work on "Innocents of Paris," Chevalier's first American-made picture. They will have pleased thousands; we will please you; no adaptation. Fidelity Security Co., 227 Park St., Hingham, 3015; open Mon., Thurs. till 8 p. m. Write for booklet A.

LEWIS STONE'S work in "The Patriot," conceded to be one of the best pictures yet produced, has made him in demand at most of the studios. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer anticipated this rush on Stone's services and some months ago signed him on a contract. He is one character actor, however, who is not cast indiscriminately, for M. G. M. knows him for their best pictures.

He now plays the defense attorney in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Both Mr. and Mrs. Stone are well known troupers. Recently they agreed to go their separate ways. She is playing under her own name of Florence Oakley in "The Royal Family." A stage production.

SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood collect at random: Norma Shearer's tan Rolls-Royce being pointed out to a Hollywood tourist. Edmund Lowe refusing to state whether he was for Notre Dame or California in last Saturday's football game. Janet Gaynor tinselling at the Ambassador Hotel. Blanche Sweet lunching at the Montmartre with Dorothy Sebastian. Mrs. Wm. A. Fox star at the time Theda Bara was vamping her public.

Patsy Ruth Miller slipping into the United Artists Theater to see herself on the screen. Alice White with blondined tresses proving that a girl can go from titian to blonde and get away with it in Hollywood. Viola Dana shopping for Christmas, also Evelyn Brent and Ruth Roland. That's all today, see you tomorrow!

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Saltonstall and Bacon

Correspondents at the State House appear to be agreed that (1) Senator Gaspar G. Bacon will be elected President of the Senate and (2) Leverett Saltonstall of Newton will be the new Speaker of the House. These things have been arranged behind the scenes, while Mr. Voter has been carrying torches, cheering the football teams and giving thanks for the reopening of the theaters.

That Senator Bacon will be chosen president is "as certain as anything can be," because both of his opponents have "acknowledged his victory and quit the race." These are Senator Moran of Mansfield and Senator Wragg of Dedham.

On the House side, there is "hardly any doubt" that Saltonstall will be elected, although his possession of pledges from a majority of the Republican members-elect "has not been acknowledged" by Hays of Brighton and Jewett of Lowell.

The average citizen shows little interest in these legislative preliminaries, although they touch him more directly than he knows. As these contests are determined, so are important places on important committees decided.

The make-up of committees is of importance because the REPORTS of committees are effective in shaping the course of legislation.

It will be interesting, for example, to see what President Bacon does with the Committee on Power and Light, which will consider among other things what to do with electric light companies which question and oppose the rate-making powers of the Public Utilities Board. Last year's Power and Light Committee was so tender and considerate that several of its members were "elected to stay at home."

General Cole made such effective use of the power issue, in the recent campaign, that the Republican candidate for Governor was elected by the most slender of pluralities, a fact which the President of the Senate will have in mind when he fills his Senate vacancies on Power and Light. THIS committee, in particular, is likely to receive more attention than it has been given before in many years.

Tariff Is Important

Organization and Efficiency Are MORE Important

THE FARMER AND THE FACTORIES

This excellent cartoon by Fitzpatrick in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is intended to emphasize the fact that the great industries yielding billions a year have a heavy tariff to protect them, their owners and their workers, whereas the farmer is not protected or insufficiently protected.

The picture with the dollar marks coming out of the factory smokestacks is strong, but it does not tell the whole story.

The farmers, of course, should be protected, and their products should be protected, as the tariff protects factory owners and workers.

Some farm products are protected, some left without protection, and none, perhaps, efficiently protected in view of low-priced labor elsewhere.

For instance, Florida and California should not be brought into competition with countries like Mexico and Spain in which the same food supplies can be produced at a quarter of the cost.

But organization, EFFICIENCY and MASS PRODUCTION have even more to do with our prosperity than the tariff itself, once the industry gets well started.

We have an automobile business all over the world, selling more cars in England than they make in England, infinitely more cars than they make in Canada, and we monopolize the automobile business at home absolutely, NOT BECAUSE THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY IS PROTECTED BY A TARIFF, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE DEVELOPED IT TO THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE POINT OF EFFICIENCY BY AMERICAN ENGINEERING GENIUS, QUANTITY PRODUCTION AND MECHANICAL SKILL.

The problem to study in connection with the farms is the possibility of greater efficiency in production.

A man trudging slowly through the day with "his hired man" over forty acres, doing everything a little and nothing THOROUGHLY, cannot possibly get for his labor as much as another man that stands still in one place, having the work come to him.

A man, of course, cannot stand still and have the farm come to him, but he can, with the help of government engineers and efficiency experts, to which he is entitled, organize his work and avoid three-quarters of the lost motion.

He could and he should be able at any time, for a reasonable payment, to secure the use of highly developed ma-

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—Thoughts while strolling: New York has—look 'em over—more carelessly dressed taxi drivers than any other big city. George Gershwin's fighting jaw. A yacht club fing shop. Those corner clocks are never right. Capt. Jim Churchill dining at Schrafft's. Walter Catlett, my favorite clown.

The new 54-a-pound candy store in the Savoy-Plaza—and boxes priced up to $300, too. Frank Sullivan is growing stout. The dolorous and depressing moo of a crated calf. More electrical shoe shine parlors. Marjorie Oelrichs, who thinks European men are nicer—walking with her mama. Editor E. D. Coblenz. One of my 300 or so bosses.

Robert C. Benchley, a Worcester (Mass.) boy, who made good in the city. Retired business men who spend the day in branch brokerage offices. Muttering old men picking up pins and scraps. Nothing so fascinating to a boy as an abandoned building. A famous cigar-smoothing athlete, smoking a pipe. Treason!

A lady with a perfumed and sequined sleeve dog. Poor little pup. A "School of Concentration." Fine homes boarded up again for winter. Aristocratic pool halls known as "billard academies." Signs: "Eat by System." I'll bite, what's the system? Watterson Rothacker. Who retired at 40, a millionaire.

Lee Shubert and his Boswell, C. P. Grenelier. Wonder how many terminal hotels there are in New York. More of those fake "twins" in flaming red. And I'm fed up on hatless boys with cropped hair. Hard to please, but good to my folks. Barbers who go to symphony concerts. Sheiks around the dance hall entrances.

That Marx brother with the black mustache. Very rooks ran 3. F. A. Burlesque show announces a "Garter Night." Horace Liveright, the publisher. Those theatrical hauls where you always hear the jangle of pianos, snatches of song or the patter of dancing steps. Theodore of the Ritz.

Jo Jo, a singing waiter of old Bowery days. Now in a Broadway play. Some of the young men who used to sport the long sideburns are now turning to slim Van Dyson. An institute for double chin treatment. Paging Paul Whiteman. Roof top publishers and skylight physical culture studios.

THE tearing down of the Herald building marks the fadeout of another illustrious Broadway landmark. In the old days, with its sidewalk view of roaring presses, it was a high spot of the thoroughfare. Along the cornices at night were the solid rows of solemn owls blinking green eyes, and through the windows could be seen the scurry and confusion of the worst heckled editorial staff in this or anyone's else town. Then the Herald moved and the little triangular square became a scene of sudden desolation. Various merchandising enterprises struggled there for brief periods and expired. The difficulty in crossing the streets to reach Herald sq. did much to doom it.

AT the north end of Times Square the exact time of day or night is etched in electrical letters. New York's eternal suspicion is amusingly displayed. The galloping throngs glance at the figures and then at watches. They won't be tricked, by durn.

ABANDONED lots on the outskirts of New York are being capitalized by astute racketeers who have turned them into auto parking spaces. The charge is $1 an hour and they are crowded with "spooners."

GEORGE WHITE—the "Scandals" one—tells of a newly rich couple attending a swank dinner among swells. The husband happened to look down the table and to his horror saw that his wife had caught the lobster back in her hair. It made him so nervous the peas rolled off his knife.

TELEPHONED a mid-town banker today to inquire about, well, I'm entitled to a little privacy. The voice of a glacial secretary asked my name, business and if I happened the flatterer, to be a deposittor. After submitting to everything but a blood test I was told to amplify my request with a letter of details. I'm not far advanced in banking circumlocutions, but it seemed to me to incorporate all the necessary essentials of the raspberry.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE greatest danger in marriage is the dishonesty of those who marry.

Nine-tenths of our marriages are built on ecstatic lies.

Take any young couple you know. They fall in love so furiously that they cannot bear to be apart. So they decide to marry

BUT NOT IN ONE CASE OUT OF A THOUSAND DO THEY DECIDE TO MARRY EACH OTHER. RATHER, THEY DECIDE TO MARRY A ROMANTIC BUT QUITE FALSE ILLUSION OF EACH OTHER.

They do not know or want to know the reality of each other. They both strive desperately to keep that reality hidden.

Helen is actually pretty much of a gypsy. There is something in her soul which craves freedom, excitement, risk. As a counter of laundry and brewer of broths she'll be miserable. But she has heard Henry express his great admiration of Domestic Women, so she pretends to adore housework. When Henry is present she hems towels and plans budgets and listens to his words with charming, but most misleading, docility.

Henry, meanwhile, is putting over a little act of his own. Henry is one of those idle, careful young men who would make some woman a lovely husband. He loves to putter around the house, yearns for an easy chair and slippers and loathes all rude and informal modes of life. But he suspects from chance remarks that Helen likes them rough. So he does his best to play the part. He talks like a stevedore, boasts of various dark ventures and steps Helen around in a dizzy maze.

They marry and for a brief period the pretence is maintained. Then it becomes unbearable. Helen's soul rebels against four walls and 24 hours of husband. Henry refuses to be dragged away from his easy chair and slippers and insists on choosing the new wallpaper. They are both consumed by a fury to be themselves. And each is highly indignant when the other's perfidy is exposed. Why did she pretend to love housework when she didn't? Why did he act like a Regular Guy when he wasn't?

They feel that they have been tricked by each other, but they have really been tricked by their own lies. And the lies were probably quite needless. They were really attracted to each other. Their differences of nature could have been adjusted if they had faced them frankly. They could have built a generous and original plan for their marriage if they had been honest. But instead they told stupid lies and made an impossible plan for their lives.

There is an old story of a man who built his house on the shifting sands. And when the storm and the wind came the house was wrecked because it had no sure foundation. Lies are sand which shifts when most you need a steady foundation.

A Cure for Sore-Heads

by Herbert Kaufman

Let's back-pedal a few years and see how far we've come.

In 1698, conditions in Scotland were so appalling that two hundred thousand wretches, even in that underpopulated land, begged from door to door or lived on murder and robbery.

There wasn't a schoolhouse or hospital above Edinburgh. But, for that matter, Sweden did not produce a physician until 1563.

Cardan, one of the greatest scholars of that time, trained his children by systematic starvation, drove lessons home with a bludgeon, appointed back-breaking tasks to teach them humility, and punished the minor disobedience of a son by cropping his ears.

The Countess of Buccleigh became a bride and an actual wife at the age of ten.

Two patients once lay in each hospital bed.

There wasn't a surgeon in a single medieval army, and those in civil life performed amputations without anesthetic and seared the stumps with hot irons or boiling pitch.

Bleeding and purging were panaceas for every disease.

Governments regularly furnished criminals for vivisection. Experimental medicine used these live subjects with no more compunction or mercy than a perverse child tearing flies apart.

Hot lead was poured down prisoners' throats and men were imprisoned, mind you, in many countries without process of trial or benefit of counsel.

Butchers washed putrid meat with new blood and sold carrion and plague infested animals.

One person out of fourteen died of smallpox. The first stove did not appear until the seventeenth century. Filth and squalor ran riot within castle walls and sewage ran through open ditches in Paris and London.

The total absence of conveniences and humanities in yon "good old days" should furnish reflective antidotes for at least a few of the discontents we feel with our times.

You picked the best century of all to live in—if you don't believe it, ask history.

chinery for a long or a short period in accordance with his wants.

Today he buys a machine that with proper care should last years; he uses it a few days each season and then puts it away to rust. His horses work in the spring, summer and fall, they are non-productive in the winter while he feeds them.

There is something more than tariff protection needed to solve the farmer's problem, and that thing is BRAINS and INDUSTRIAL EFFICIENCY ON THE FARMS. It can do there in time what it has done in the factories.

National Policies of the Hearst Papers

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

DIALOGUE WILL BE OMITTED FROM FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service.

LOS Angeles, Dec. 7—Joseph Schenck has the courage of his convictions. He has recently given out a statement in which he says the talking pictures will not endure. Now we have word that "The Love Song," renamed "Lady of the Pavements" when released, and directed by D. W. Griffith, will be minus dialogue.

This is what happened. When United Artists got ready to incorporate spoken lines William Boyd and George Fawcett, two of the principal players, had other engagements. Pathe had started Boyd on a starring vehicle. To get him back would have cost U. A. almost $200,000.

Both Lupe Velez and Jetta Goudal, who have the feminine leads, speak with a marked accent and different accents at that. They could not learn to speak the lines without some trace of an accent. "Lady of the Pavements" was started before this furore over sound pictures began, when accents were unimportant.

Of course, this does not mean "Lady of the Pavements" will not have synchronization, there will be songs by Miss Velez and music. Sometimes it's a genuine relief to have a picture without sound, then again sound helps mightily. It's a question that is by no means one-sided. This is the first case of sound being withdrawn.

THE best laid plans of mice and men "gang aft agley," if you will pardon my Scotch. I just had Ruth Roland in mind for the part of the lead in "Trial Marriage" with a story and everything when along came Ann Harding. Varlea and Columbia at the eleventh hour had come to the parting of the ways.

Janet Roberts has been signed instead of Forbes and with Norman Kerry will here opposite Sally Eilers in the picture. It certainly hope our studios will soon get their fill of these trial marriages.

My goodness, Judge Ben Lindsey started something when he decided to film his theme on companionate marriage. It's a subject that always helps along a temperamental box office. "Trial Marriage," as I stated before, is an all-talkie and Thelma Todd has also been signed for one of the important parts.

Harry Cohn in making the announcement states that Jack Holt and Kerry's part is fully as big as that of Jason Robard's and just because we don't want to be a one-man starring trouble we repeat Cohn's words.

THERE have been many tests and many conferences and what not on the "Fox" in an effort to get just the right leading lady for Paul Muni, who is to be starred in "Alkali Ike," well known Cosmo stage play. Muni, whose real name is Muni Weisenfreund, is one of the best Hebrew character actors on the American stage today and his first Fox picture is being built to show to view to giving him just the right sort of vehicle and support.

Marguerite Churchill has been chosen as his leading lady and since he comes from the Fox stage play, Muni, naturally they will both be well qualified to speak their lines. Of course, it's a talkie, that is to W. K. Howard's next and incidentally his first sound picture.

A LITTLE bird whispered to me some weeks ago that Famous Players-Lasky were considering engaging pretty little Sylvia Beecher, who achieved considerable fame on the stage. Here in Los Angeles at the studios, Mack Sennett will name the girl as the successor to Phyllis Haver. Sennett's newest find is Vida Dana shopping for Christmas, also Evelyn Brent and Ruth Roland. That's all today, see you tomorrow!

LEWIS STONE'S work in "The Patriot," conceded to be one of the best pictures yet produced, has made him in demand at most of the studios. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer anticipated this rush on Stone's services and some months ago signed him on a contract. He is one character actor, however, who is not cast indiscriminately, for M. G. M. knows him for their best pictures.

He now plays the defense attorney in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Both Mr. and Mrs. Stone are well known troupers. Recently they agreed to go their separate ways. She is playing under her own name of Florence Oakley in "The Royal Family." A stage production.

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Saltonstall and Bacon

Correspondents at the State House appear to be agreed that (1) Senator Gaspar G. Bacon will be elected President of the Senate and (2) Leverett Saltonstall of Newton will be the new Speaker of the House. These things have been arranged behind the scenes, while Mr. Voter has been carrying torches, cheering the football teams and giving thanks for the reopening of the theaters.

That Senator Bacon will be chosen president is "as certain as anything can be," because both of his opponents have "acknowledged his victory and quit the race." These are Senator Moran of Mansfield and Senator Wragg of Dedham.

On the House side, there is "hardly any doubt" that Saltonstall will be elected, although his possession of pledges from a majority of the Republican members-elect "has not been acknowledged" by Hays of Brighton and Jewett of Lowell.

The average citizen shows little interest in these legislative preliminaries, although they touch him more directly than he knows. As these contests are determined, so are important places on important committees decided.

The make-up of committees is of importance because the REPORTS of committees are effective in shaping the course of legislation.

It will be interesting, for example, to see what President Bacon does with the Committee on Power and Light, which will consider among other things what to do with electric light companies which question and oppose the rate-making powers of the Public Utilities Board. Last year's Power and Light Committee was so tender and considerate that several of its members were "elected to stay at home."

General Cole made such effective use of the power issue, in the recent campaign, that the Republican candidate for Governor was elected by the most slender of pluralities, a fact which the President of the Senate will have in mind when he fills his Senate vacancies on Power and Light. THIS committee, in particular, is likely to receive more attention than it has been given before in many years.

Tariff Is Important

Organization and Efficiency Are MORE Important

THE FARMER AND THE FACTORIES

This excellent cartoon by Fitzpatrick in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch is intended to emphasize the fact that the great industries yielding billions a year have a heavy tariff to protect them, their owners and their workers, whereas the farmer is not protected or insufficiently protected.

The picture with the dollar marks coming out of the factory smokestacks is strong, but it does not tell the whole story.

The farmers, of course, should be protected, and their products should be protected, as the tariff protects factory owners and workers.

Some farm products are protected, some left without protection, and none, perhaps, efficiently protected in view of low-priced labor elsewhere.

For instance, Florida and California should not be brought into competition with countries like Mexico and Spain in which the same food supplies can be produced at a quarter of the cost.

But organization, EFFICIENCY and MASS PRODUCTION have even more to do with our prosperity than the tariff itself, once the industry gets well started.

We have an automobile business all over the world, selling more cars in England than they make in England, infinitely more cars than they make in Canada, and we monopolize the automobile business at home absolutely, NOT BECAUSE THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY IS PROTECTED BY A TARIFF, BUT BECAUSE WE HAVE DEVELOPED IT TO THE HIGHEST POSSIBLE POINT OF EFFICIENCY BY AMERICAN ENGINEERING GENIUS, QUANTITY PRODUCTION AND MECHANICAL SKILL.

The problem to study in connection with the farms is the possibility of greater efficiency in production.

A man trudging slowly through the day with "his hired man" over forty acres, doing everything a little and nothing THOROUGHLY, cannot possibly get for his labor as much as another man that stands still in one place, having the work come to him.

A man, of course, cannot stand still and have the farm come to him, but he can, with the help of government engineers and efficiency experts, to which he is entitled, organize his work and avoid three-quarters of the lost motion.

He could and he should be able at any time, for a reasonable payment, to secure the use of highly developed ma-

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—Thoughts while strolling: New York has—look 'em over—more carelessly dressed taxi drivers than any other big city. George Gershwin's fighting jaw. A yacht club fing shop. Those corner clocks are never right. Capt. Jim Churchill dining at Schrafft's. Walter Catlett, my favorite clown.

The new 54-a-pound candy store in the Savoy-Plaza—and boxes priced up to $300, too. Frank Sullivan is growing stout. The dolorous and depressing moo of a crated calf. More electrical shoe shine parlors. Marjorie Oelrichs, who thinks European men are nicer—walking with her mama. Editor E. D. Coblenz. One of my 300 or so bosses.

Robert C. Benchley, a Worcester (Mass.) boy, who made good in the city. Retired business men who spend the day in branch brokerage offices. Muttering old men picking up pins and scraps. Nothing so fascinating to a boy as an abandoned building. A famous cigar-smoothing athlete, smoking a pipe. Treason!

A lady with a perfumed and sequined sleeve dog. Poor little pup. A "School of Concentration." Fine homes boarded up again for winter. Aristocratic pool halls known as "billard academies." Signs: "Eat by System." I'll bite, what's the system? Watterson Rothacker. Who retired at 40, a millionaire.

Lee Shubert and his Boswell, C. P. Grenelier. Wonder how many terminal hotels there are in New York. More of those fake "twins" in flaming red. And I'm fed up on hatless boys with cropped hair. Hard to please, but good to my folks. Barbers who go to symphony concerts. Sheiks around the dance hall entrances.

That Marx brother with the black mustache. Very rooks ran 3. F. A. Burlesque show announces a "Garter Night." Horace Liveright, the publisher. Those theatrical hauls where you always hear the jangle of pianos, snatches of song or the patter of dancing steps. Theodore of the Ritz.

Jo Jo, a singing waiter of old Bowery days. Now in a Broadway play. Some of the young men who used to sport the long sideburns are now turning to slim Van Dyson. An institute for double chin treatment. Paging Paul Whiteman. Roof top publishers and skylight physical culture studios.

THE tearing down of the Herald building marks the fadeout of another illustrious Broadway landmark. In the old days, with its sidewalk view of roaring presses, it was a high spot of the thoroughfare. Along the cornices at night were the solid rows of solemn owls blinking green eyes, and through the windows could be seen the scurry and confusion of the worst heckled editorial staff in this or anyone's else town. Then the Herald moved and the little triangular square became a scene of sudden desolation. Various merchandising enterprises struggled there for brief periods and expired. The difficulty in crossing the streets to reach Herald sq. did much to doom it.

AT the north end of Times Square the exact time of day or night is etched in electrical letters. New York's eternal suspicion is amusingly displayed. The galloping throngs glance at the figures and then at watches. They won't be tricked, by durn.

ABANDONED lots on the outskirts of New York are being capitalized by astute racketeers who have turned them into auto parking spaces. The charge is $1 an hour and they are crowded with "spooners."

GEORGE WHITE—the "Scandals" one—tells of a newly rich couple attending a swank dinner among swells. The husband happened to look down the table and to his horror saw that his wife had caught the lobster back in her hair. It made him so nervous the peas rolled off his knife.

TELEPHONED a mid-town banker today to inquire about, well, I'm entitled to a little privacy. The voice of a glacial secretary asked my name, business and if I happened the flatterer, to be a deposittor. After submitting to everything but a blood test I was told to amplify my request with a letter of details. I'm not far advanced in banking circumlocutions, but it seemed to me to incorporate all the necessary essentials of the raspberry.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE greatest danger in marriage is the dishonesty of those who marry.

Nine-tenths of our marriages are built on ecstatic lies.

Take any young couple you know. They fall in love so furiously that they cannot bear to be apart. So they decide to marry

BUT NOT IN ONE CASE OUT OF A THOUSAND DO THEY DECIDE TO MARRY EACH OTHER. RATHER, THEY DECIDE TO MARRY A ROMANTIC BUT QUITE FALSE ILLUSION OF EACH OTHER.

They do not know or want to know the reality of each other. They both strive desperately to keep that reality hidden.

Helen is actually pretty much of a gypsy. There is something in her soul which craves freedom, excitement, risk. As a counter of laundry and brewer of broths she'll be miserable. But she has heard Henry express his great admiration of Domestic Women, so she pretends to adore housework. When Henry is present she hems towels and plans budgets and listens to his words with charming, but most misleading, docility.

Henry, meanwhile, is putting over a little act of his own. Henry is one of those kids, careful young men who would make some woman a lovely husband. He loves to putter around the house, yearns for an easy chair and slippers and loathes all rude and informal modes of life. But he suspects from chance remarks that Helen likes them rough. So he does his best to play the part. He talks like a stevedore, boasts of various dark ventures and steps Helen around in a dizzy maze.

They marry and for a brief period the pretence is maintained. Then it becomes unbearable. Helen's soul rebels against four walls and 24 hours of husband. Henry refuses to be dragged away from his easy chair and slippers and insists on choosing the new wallpaper. They are both consumed by a fury to be themselves. And each is highly indignant when the other's perfidy is exposed. Why did she pretend to love housework when she didn't? Why did he act like a Regular Guy when he wasn't?

They feel that they have been tricked by each other, but they have really been tricked by their own lies. And the lies were probably quite needless. They were really attracted to each other. Their differences of nature could have been adjusted if they had faced them frankly. They could have built a generous and original plan for their marriage if they had been honest. But instead they told stupid lies and made an impossible plan for their lives.

There is an old story of a man who built his house on the shifting sands. And when the storm and the wind came the house was wrecked because it had no sure foundation. Lies are sand which shifts when most you need a steady foundation.

Better by far you should forget and smile

There is an endless merit in a man's knowing when to have done. —Ovid.

A Cure for Sore-Heads

by Herbert Kaufman

Let's back-pedal a few years and see how far we've come.

In 1698, conditions in Scotland were so appalling that two hundred thousand wretches, even in that underpopulated land, begged from door to door or lived on murder and robbery.

There wasn't a schoolhouse or hospital above Edinburgh. But, for that matter, Sweden did not produce a physician until 1563.

The Countess of Buccleigh became a bride and an actual wife at the age of ten.

Two patients once lay in each hospital bed.

There wasn't a surgeon in a single medieval army, and those in civil life performed amputations without anesthetic and seared the stumps with hot irons or boiling pitch.

Bleeding and purging were panaceas for every disease.

Governments regularly furnished criminals for vivisection. Experimental medicine used these live subjects with no more compunction or mercy than a perverse child tearing flies apart.

Hot lead was poured down prisoners' throats and men were imprisoned, mind you, in many countries without process of trial or benefit of counsel.

Butchers washed putrid meat with new blood and sold carrion and plague infested animals.

One person out of fourteen died of smallpox. The first stove did not appear until the seventeenth century. Filth and squalor ran riot within castle walls and sewage ran through open ditches in Paris and London.

The total absence of conveniences and humanities in yon "good old days" should furnish reflective antidotes for at least a few of the discontents we feel with our times.

You picked the best century of all to live in—if you don't believe it, ask history.

"Verses by Herbert Kaufman
Vim Vigor and Victory
Hoover was an orphan lad.
What was your beginning?
Not a copper Penny had
When he started winning.
Schall of Minnesota's blind,
But he climbed to power.
Why are you so far behind
These men of the hour?
Ignorance is no excuse;
Books are free, go read them.
Capital awaits the use
Of eager brains—and needs them.
Opportunity's no oneb:
Self-made men attest it,
If you're buried in the mob,
You'd a chance—and messed it.

Tariff Is Important

chinery for a long or a short period in accordance with his wants.

Today he buys a machine that with proper care should last years; he uses it a few days each season and then puts it away to rust. His horses work in the spring, summer and fall, they are non-productive in the winter while he feeds them.

There is something more than tariff protection needed to solve the farmer's problem, and that thing is BRAINS and INDUSTRIAL EFFICIENCY ON THE FARMS. It can do there in time what it has done in the factories.

National Policies of the Hearst Papers

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.
